Hope Abandoned For 46 on Aircraft

Canvass Scheduled To Aid Netherlands

Money Will Be Collected Tonight in Kingston From 7 to 8

Tonight is the night on which Kingston will seek to help the flood-stricken Netherlands. From 7 to 8, over 300 volunteer workers, representing most of the city's civic, fraternal, religious and service organizations, will make a house-to-house canvass in every ward of the city on behalf of the Kingston-Holland Flood Relief Committee.

The committee was formed spontaneously 12 days ago by the citizens of Kingston for the purpose of extending financial aid to the homeless and destitute sufferers from floods in the Netherlands. In the short span of time since then, a large volume of voluntary contributions have reached the committee, principally from areas in Ulster county outside of the city.

Each solicitor has been furnished with a sealed container for funds which he will turn over to his organization chairman tonight immediately after 8 o'clock. The group chairman will deliver his organization's containers to the mayor's office tonight and at a farily early hour it should be

Fourth Raft Has No Survivors; Plane Hit Winds

New Orleans, Feb. 16 (AP)—A fourth liferaft from the National Airlines DC-6 plane that plunged into the storm-tossed Gulf of Mexico with 46 persons aboard was found empty today "apparently ending all hope for survivors."

Three other liferafts—all empty—were found bobbing on the choppy waters yesterday by an armada of planes and ships that combed the waters.

The coast guard said the fourth raft was recovered "accounting for all of the rafts and apparently ending any hope for survivors." The raft had never been inflated.

Only a remote possibility was held by the coast guard that any survivors would be found aboard the fourth raft.

The coast guard said even if survivors had managed to get on the rafts that the rough waters would have probably washed them overboard.

The ill-fated four-engined plane, flying in 100-mile per-hour winds, was en route from Tampa, Fla., to New Orleans when it crashed last Saturday afternoon less than five minutes from possible safety.

Prominent Folk Aboard

Many persons prominent in business and society were aboard the big airliner when it left Tampa at 3 p. m. (CST) Saturday for the 419-mile run across the Gulf. It was due in New Orleans at 5:25 p. m. (CST).

Some of the passengers were en route here for Mardi Gras festivities.

A search, started when the plane failed to arrive, expanded hourly despite 20-foot waves which hampered rescue vessels.

S.O.S. signals were heard early yesterday in New Orleans, at Gulfport, Miss., Biloxi, Miss., and Mobile. They were sent by a hand-cranked "Gibson Girl" transmitter of a type carried by the DC-6. Receipts of the distress calls was reported from about 1 a. m. (CST) to 6 a. m. (CST). They stopped before a direction finder could establish the point of origin.

It was the first fatal crash of a regularly scheduled U. S. Airliner since a National DC-6 fell at Elizabeth, N. J., on Feb. 11, 1952.

At Miami, Fla., National's vice president in charge of operations, Capt. E. J. Kershaw, said the DC-6 in Saturday's crash may have met "tornado conditions."

No Malfunctions Found

Kershaw, a veteran pilot, said in a statement that preliminary examinations of conditions during the flight and of some debris recovered had not revealed any malfunctions in the plane.

Kershaw noted that Capt. E. A. Springer, pilot of the DC-6 met turbulent weather conditions about the time of his last report, causing him to descend from 14,000 feet to 4,500 feet.

An investigation was started by H. B. Shebat of College Park, Ga., and T. G. Packham of Miami, civil aeronautics authorities.

Besides plane debris, rescue workers found such items as a

Budget Tops Agenda; Big Job Is Ahead

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—New York's legislators today were primed to ram Gov. Dewey's $1,072,500,000 budget for fiscal 1953-54 through the Senate and Assembly, and head for final adjournment about March 18.

But they had their job cut out for them, with many controversial bills awaiting their consideration. The hottest part of the 1953 session lay before them.

On another money matter two Queens Republicans announced they would ask the legislature to create a nine-member commission to study Ney York city's recurring financial crisis. Sen. Seymour Halper and Assemblyman Fred W. Preller said the $50,000 investigation would be designed to "avoid the yearly frantic scramble to obtain more state aid and new city taxing powers."

Their request was received as the Dewey administration prepared to issue an official analysis of Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's proposed $218,700,000 tax program for the financially strapped metroplis.

Dewey's new budget, his second billion-dollar-plus spending program in a row, was scheduled to be cleared by the Senate Finance Committee tonight. The Assembly Ways and Means Committee approved it last Thursday.

The budget, without major changes, is slated to roll through the Senate tomorrow, and to be cleared finally by the Assembly Wednesday.

Insurance Bill Splits GOP Ranks

Lawmakers Are Against Compulsory Features of Auto Coverage — Would Protect Many

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—A spirit of revolt brewed among some Republican lawmakers today over the Dewey administration's bills to require automobile liability insurance for New York's 4¼ million vehicles.

Several GOP Senators and Assemblymen, determined to stymie the governor's plan, drafted their own bills to sidetrack the administration program.

The Dewey measures, to be introduced tonight, would:

1. Require that all vehicles registered in the state be protected by a liability policy or other evidence of financial responsibility, such as a property bond or a financial deposit. The minimum insurance would be $10,000 for injuries to one person; $20,000 for injuries to two or more persons and $5,000 for property damage.

2. Force private insurance companies to operate under an "assigned case plan" to pay off claims brought against uninsured, out-of-state drivers; operators of hit-and-run vehicles or stolen cars, or other drivers who were not insured.

Says System Needed

Dewey says a compulsory system is needed to protect the 90 to 95 per cent of New York drivers who already carry insurance.

But the program faces stiff Republican opposition, and may need heavy Democratic support to clear the GOP-controlled legislature. Many private insurance companies will help insurgent Republicans battle the mandatory system.

One GOP alternative to the Dewey plan will be introduced tonight by Assemblyman Samuel Roman of Manhattan. He will propose an auto impoundment law, under which any uninsured vehicle involved in an accident would be locked up by the state until its owner satisfied all claims arising from the mishap.

Will Introduce Measure

Two other Republicans, Sen. MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson of Yonkers, also will introduce an impoundment measure, and also call for the creation of an unsatisfied judgment fund.

The fund would be set up by the state by collecting $1 a year from all insured motorists, $10 from each uninsured driver and one-half of 1 per cent of liability premiums collected by private insurance companies. Claims against uninsured motorists would be paid from the fund.

The administration's "financial responsibility" program will be introduced by GOP Sen. William S. Hults Jr. of Port Washington, chairman of the joint legislative committee to study an unsatisfied judgment fund and compulsory insurance. The committee and the state insurance department drafted the bills.

Refused to Back Plan

Hults disclosed that two Republican members of the committee had refused to back the Dewey plan, thereby splitting the committee by a 3-2 vote. The de-

Janasiewicz, Tomshaw Check Auto, Summon Help for Search of Building

Two alert patrolmen, working in plain clothes, set a police trap early today to catch two teenagers charged with a series of burglaries in the city and county.

The two, police said, admit thefts from the Empire Diner on Broadway, the Artcraft Camera Shop, North Front street, the Cerasaro Brothers Sport Center, Clinton avenue, the Prince street A & P Market, and several others, but they deny committing the burglary at Roses's Super Market on Franklin street, from which $2,500 was reported stolen last week.

Observations by Officers Carl Janasiewicz and Thomas Tomshaw resulted in the catch that took into custody Kenneth Joseph Banks and Frank Banks, Jr., both 17 and cousins, of 491 Wilbur avenue. They waived examination before City Judge Raymond J. Mino this morning and were held for the grand jury on third degree burglary charges.

Delicatessen Entered

County Investigator Arthur Brown said the two admitted entering Ann's Delicatessen in Woodstock Sunday night and the Warren VanKleeck service station at Port Ewen about a week ago. The sheriff's department is to continue questioning, he said.

The theft of a small amount of money and some merchandise was reported taken from the Woodstock delicatessen. Brown said they admitted breaking into the Port Ewen service station and damaging a cigarette machine, but got nothing there.

Sgt. Lemuel Howard's report at police headquarters at 12:20 a. m., today said Officers Janasiewicz and Tomshaw had called in by radio to announce they had found a black Chevrolet coupe with motor running and a loaded 30-30 calibre rifle on a seat near the Supreme Beverage Co., and they believed some person or persons had entered the building at South Clinton and Barmann avenues.

The officers called for reinforcements, the report said, and two cars with Officers George Loughran and James Harbeck, John Crespino and Francis Loeffler were dispatched to the building.

Firemen Bring Light

Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons were also notified and Officer William Norton was sent to the building. The fire department was also called and sent the truck from central station for use of a floodlight. Investigator Brown and Deputy Sheriff Chet Wolven, who had been at police headquarters, went to the building with the police.

Sgt. James Cullum conveyed police shotguns to the building and took charge of the search which cornered the two, one on the roof and another on the upper part of

Chemical Tests Are Proposed

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—Compulsory chemical tests for persons accused of drunken driving will be proposed tonight in the Legislature.

Bills will be sponsored by the joint legislative committee on motor vehicle problems, Sen. Seymour Halpern, chairman of the committee, said Saturday.

The legislation would require an accused driver to take the test or lose his operator's license.

The law now permits cities to use chemical tests and the results may be used as evidence in court, but drivers may refuse to submit to them.

The question has been raised by some lawyers as to whether compulsory tests are unconstitutional on the ground of self-incrimination.

Validity Believed Okay

Halpern said "a comprehensive study of every judicial decision dealing with these tests was made by the committee and it has concluded that there is not doubt about the constitutionality of the proposed laws."

He said the prosecution of drunken drivers, whom he termed "the number-one menace on the road today," was "extremely lax."

"The crime of driving while in an intoxicated condition has been called the crime that cops can't touch," he added.

Chemical tests determine intoxication by measuring the amount of alcohol in a person's blood. The most frequently used are blood or urine analyses. There also are balloon tests which analyze the breath.

The law specifies that if a test is given it must be given within two hours of the time of arrest.

Is Not Intoxicated

If it shows the defendant had .05 of 1 per cent or less alcohol in his blood he is not intoxicated, the law states. If the test shows that he has more than .05 of 1 per cent but less than .15 of 1 per cent, it may be used as relevant evidence in court "but it is not to be given prima facie effect in indicating" intoxication.

If the test shows .15 of 1 per cent or more alcohol in the blood, the test "may be admitted as prima facie evidence that the defendant was in an intoxicated condition."

Halpern said chemical tests had cut drunken driving drastically in cities where they were used.

He cited Detroit and said that during the first year tests were

Rosenberg's Execution Set for Week of March 9

Federal Judge Kaufman Reschedules Date for Convicted Atom Spies

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Execution of atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today was set for the week of March 9.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman scheduled the new execution date for the husband and wife, whose appeal to the President for clemency has been rejected.

The couple was convicted nearly two years ago of conspiring to transmit atomic information to Russia. They have been in Sing Sing prison's death house ever since.

Might Be March 12

U. S. Marshal William Carroll said the date of the electrocution may be March 12, and the hour 11 p. m. (EST).

Rosenberg, 34, and his wife, 36, originally had been scheduled to die in the electric chair there Jan. 14.

But the judge postponed the execution to permit time for the President to act on their clemency appeal.

President Eisenhower last week turned them down.

Setting of the new execution date came amid a growing clamor over the case.

For the second time, the Roman Catholic apostolic delegation in Washington last week informed the government the Pope has received large numbers of pleas for mercy.

And last night a Protestant leader renewed the plea of some 2,300 Protestant clergy for commutation of the sentence.

Guard Is Placed Over Man Accused Of Wife's Murder

Ira Francis Dickson, 59, Wounds Self After Slaying Woman, Police Say

A 59-year-old Greenville man is in "poor" condition at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, today with gunshot wounds state police said he inflicted upon himself after shooting and killing his wife.

Three Greene county deputy sheriffs have been assigned to maintain a 24-hour guard over Ira Francis Dickson, who state police said will be charged with first degree murder.

Dickson shot his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun in the kitchen of their home on Red Mill road, Greenville, at 7:45 a. m. Sunday, troopers said. The wife, Effie Etta Dickson, 57, died instantly.

Went to Attic

The husband then went to the attic of the home and attempted suicide by placing the gun barrel against the left side of his chest and pulling the trigger, according to the report.

Meanwhile, his daughter, Virginia, 22, ran to a neighbor's house after he had threatened her with the gun.

Dr. Joseph Bellamy of Hudson, coroner's physician, said an autopsy showed Mrs. Dickson's death due to wounds of the heart and lungs. Investigating were members of the state police under Inspector J. W. Sayers, and Greene County Coroner M. H. Atkinson.

Catskill Pilot Escapes Flak Trap

Lt. Somers Uses Wisdom to Bring Him Home on 100th Mission

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—Lt. Eugene K. Somers, Catskill, N. Y., veteran reconnaissance pilot, used the wisdom acquired in 99 missions over Communist North Korea to bring him back safely from his 100th and last mission.

Somers, flying an unarmed RF-80 Shooting Star, spotted what appeared to be two communist tanks in a rice field.

Because of the absence of the usual camouflage, Somers decided on a cautious approach and flew over at a high altitude.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire erupted all round the "tanks."

"It was an old trick," Somers said. "Two trucks disguised as tanks and surrounded by heavy ack ack guns—in other words, a flack trap."

Somers will leave soon for home.

Sabres Down 3 Red Planes; Williams Escapes in Crackup

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—U. S. sabre jets today shot down three Russian-built MIGs, probably destroyed another and damaged seven while screening a massive air raid on a big Communist troop and supply buildup area.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported the Communist jet fighter losses after announcing earlier that 200 allied fighter-bombers had turned the supply area southwest of Pyongyang into a boiling mass of smoke and flames.

It was the second straight day of jet dog fights in far northwest Korea.

The sabres, outnumbered 45 to 22, shot down two MIGs Sunday, probably destroyed a third and damaged four. They were shielding allied fighter-bombers which knocked out two generators at the big Suiho hydroelectric plant on the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria.

More than 500 air force, marine and U. S. carrier planes turned the giant Suiho plant—the world's fourth largest—into a pile of junk last June 23, but the Communists evidently had rebuilt it.

Today's target for the big allied air strike was Kyomipo, about 20 miles southwest of the Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Participating in the stepped-up air blows were Marine Capt. Ted Williams, famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, and air force Maj. James Jabara, America's first jet ace who is flying his second combat tour in Korea.

Williams' fighter-bomber developed trouble over the Kyomipo target area—presumably hit by ground fire. He managed to get the plane back to an allied air strip and crash landed. He walked away from the wrecked and blazing plane.

Jabara, from Wichita, Kas., was credited with damaging a MIG—the first claim of his second combat tour after 20 or more fruitless missions. On his first tour Jabara destroyed six MIGs, probably destroyed another and damaged four.

Allied warships meanwhile began the third year of their bombardment and seige of the eastern Korean port of Wonsan. The U. S. heavy cruiser Toledo and two destroyers, the Wedderburn and Moore, shelled shore installations.

The seige of Wonsan is the longest in U. S. naval history. It began Feb. 16, 1951, after the U. S. First Marine Division and other UN units were evacuated in the Eighth Army's retreat from North Korea.

AP Correspondent Olen Clements, aboard the U. S. carrier Valley Forge, described Wonsan as "a battered hulk of rubble and death." He said the city, which once had a population of 100,000 and was eastern Korea's trans-

Prison Association Urges Broad Program of Reform

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP) — Prison riots like those that have spread across the nation "could happen" in New York state, the State Prison Association says in urging a broad program of institutional reform here.

The private group, in its annual report to the Legislature, said last night that no serious outbreak had occurred in the Empire State since disturbances at Auburn in 1929.

"We would like to feel that this is the result of good management rather than simply good luck, but let no one rest assured that 'it can't happen here'," the group said.

It recommended specifically that a more "scientific distribution" of prisoners be worked out in an effort to place inmates among those of their own classification.

The organization said prisoners at Walkill Prison, Coxsackie Vocational Institute and the Elmira Reception Center were screened scientifically.

"In the run-of-the-mill prisons, however, such as Sing Sing, Dannemora, Green Haven and the others, there is the problem of prisoner distribution," the group asserted.

The association urged the legislature to approve proposals by Gov. Dewey's administration to convert Great Meadow prison into a confinement center for more hardened young criminals. It also recommended that the admission age at Elmira Reformatory be raised from 21 to 25, and that a permanent institute on crime and delinquency be set up at St. Lawrence University.

Many of the prison riots in the country last year were related to personnel shortcomings, "both

Stevenson Will Not Bar Path for Any Candidates in 1956

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson apparently intends to keep himself available for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination but will put no barrier in the path of any other potential candidate.

Here to confer with members of Congress and other Democratic leaders, the 1952 nominee continued to turn away with jesting replies all queries about his political future.

Asked at a reception yesterday for Democratic legislators if he would be running for office in 1956, Stevenson quipped:

"I may be running for cover. But maybe that won't be necessary then."

He made it plain that he has no intention to oppose Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) in the latter's expected bid for renomination in 1954.

"Douglas is a friend of mine and I wouldn't run against him under any circumstances," Stevenson declared.

Will Be Available

Democrats who have sounded out his thinking on his political future say they are convinced Stevenson will be available for the party's nomination in 1956, but he will not attempt to shut off other possible aspirants.

These Democrats said Stevenson gives every evidence that he would be happy if some other candidate came forward. But these persons say he is realistic enough to believe that there is now no one in the party who can be re-

Tax Cut Is Agreed Upon

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee today approved a bill to cut income tax rates 10 per cent, effective June 30.

The tax cut was sponsored by Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.), chairman of the committee.

His bill was passed by the committee despite President Eisenhower's recommendation that no action be taken on an income tax until steps have been taken to balance the budget.

Reed said the vote at a closed committee meeting was 21 to 4 in favor of his proposal. One Democrat and three Republicans voted against it. Twelve Republicans and nine Democrats were for it.

Proposals Offered

Before the final committee action, the Democrats on the committee offered a series of proposals demanding a delay until

Chemical Tests Are Proposed

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—Compulsory chemical tests for persons accused of drunken driving will be proposed tonight in the Legislature.

Bills will be sponsored by the joint legislative committee on motor vehicle problems, Sen. Seymour Halpern, chairman of the committee, said Saturday.

The legislation would require an accused driver to take the test or lose his operator's license.

The law now permits cities to use chemical tests and the results may be used as evidence in court, but drivers may refuse to submit to them.

The question has been raised by some lawyers as to whether compulsory tests are unconstitutional on the ground of self-incrimination.

Seizure Is Made When Car Is Seen

Janasiewicz, Tomshaw Check Auto, Summon Help for Search of Building

Two alert patrolmen, working in plain clothes, set a police trap early today to catch two teenagers charged with a series of burglaries in the city and county.

The two, police said, admit thefts from the Empire Diner on Broadway, the Artcraft Camera Shop, North Front street, the Cerasaro Brothers Sport Center, Clinton avenue, the Prince street A & P Market, and several others, but they deny committing the burglary at Roses's Super Market on Franklin street, from which $2,500 was reported stolen last week.

Observations by Officers Carl Janasiewicz and Thomas Tomshaw resulted in the catch that took into custody Kenneth Joseph Banks and Frank Banks, Jr., both 17 and cousins, of 491 Wilbur avenue. They waived examination before City Judge Raymond J. Mino this morning and were held for the grand jury on third degree burglary charges.

Delicatessen Entered

County Investigator Arthur Brown said the two admitted entering Ann's Delicatessen in Woodstock Sunday night and the Warren VanKleeck service station at Port Ewen about a week ago. The sheriff's department is to continue questioning, he said.

The theft of a small amount of money and some merchandise was reported taken from the Woodstock delicatessen. Brown said they admitted breaking into the Port Ewen service station and damaging a cigarette machine, but got nothing there.

Sgt. Lemuel Howard's report at police headquarters at 12:20 a. m., today said Officers Janasiewicz and Tomshaw had called in by radio to announce they had found a black Chevrolet coupe with motor running and a loaded 30-30 calibre rifle on a seat near the Supreme Beverage Co., and they believed some person or persons had entered the building at South Clinton and Barmann avenues.

The officers called for reinforcements, the report said, and two cars with Officers George Loughran and James Harbeck, John Crespino and Francis Loeffler were dispatched to the building.

Firemen Bring Light

Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons were also notified and Officer William Norton was sent to the building. The fire department was also called and sent the truck from central station for use of a floodlight. Investigator Brown and Deputy Sheriff Chet Wolven, who had been at police headquarters, went to the building with the police.

Sgt. James Cullum conveyed police shotguns to the building and took charge of the search which cornered the two, one on the roof and another on the upper part of

Rosenberg's Execution Set for Week of March 9

Federal Judge Kaufman Reschedules Date for Convicted Atom Spies

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Execution of atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today was set for the week of March 9.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman scheduled the new execution date for the husband and wife, whose appeal to the President for clemency has been rejected.

The couple was convicted nearly two years ago of conspiring to transmit atomic information to Russia. They have been in Sing Sing prison's death house ever since.

Might Be March 12

U. S. Marshal William Carroll said the date of the electrocution may be March 12, and the hour 11 p. m. (EST).

Rosenberg, 34, and his wife, 36, originally had been scheduled to die in the electric chair there Jan. 14.

But the judge postponed the execution to permit time for the President to act on their clemency appeal.

President Eisenhower last week turned them down.

Setting of the new execution date came amid a growing clamor over the case.

For the second time, the Roman Catholic apostolic delegation in Washington last week informed the government the Pope has received large numbers of pleas for mercy.

And last night a Protestant leader renewed the plea of some 2,300 Protestant clergy for commutation of the sentence.

Catskill Pilot Escapes Flak Trap

Lt. Somers Uses Wisdom to Bring Him Home on 100th Mission

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—Lt. Eugene K. Somers, Catskill, N. Y., veteran reconnaissance pilot, used the wisdom acquired in 99 missions over Communist North Korea to bring him back safely from his 100th and last mission.

Somers, flying an unarmed RF-80 Shooting Star, spotted what appeared to be two communist tanks in a rice field.

Because of the absence of the usual camouflage, Somers decided on a cautious approach and flew over at a high altitude.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire erupted all round the "tanks."

"It was an old trick," Somers said. "Two trucks disguised as tanks and surrounded by heavy ack ack guns—in other words, a flack trap."

Somers will leave soon for home.

Ira Francis Dickson, 59, Wounds Self After Slaying Woman, Police Say

A 59-year-old Greenville man is in "poor" condition at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, today with gunshot wounds state police said he inflicted upon himself after shooting and killing his wife.

Three Greene county deputy sheriffs have been assigned to maintain a 24-hour guard over Ira Francis Dickson, who state police said will be charged with first degree murder.

Dickson shot his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun in the kitchen of their home on Red Mill road, Greenville, at 7:45 a. m. Sunday, troopers said. The wife, Effie Etta Dickson, 57, died instantly.

Went to Attic

The husband then went to the attic of the home and attempted suicide by placing the gun barrel against the left side of his chest and pulling the trigger, according to the report.

Meanwhile, his daughter, Virginia, 22, ran to a neighbor's house after he had threatened her with the gun.

Dr. Joseph Bellamy of Hudson, coroner's physician, said an autopsy showed Mrs. Dickson's death due to wounds of the heart and lungs. Investigating were members of the state police under Inspector J. W. Sayers, and Greene County Coroner M. H. Atkinson.

Sabres Down 3 Red Planes; Williams Escapes in Crackup

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—U. S. sabre jets today shot down three Russian-built MIGs, probably destroyed another and damaged seven while screening a massive air raid on a big Communist troop and supply buildup area.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported the Communist jet fighter losses after announcing earlier that 200 allied fighter-bombers had turned the supply area southwest of Pyongyang into a boiling mass of smoke and flames.

It was the second straight day of jet dog fights in far northwest Korea.

The sabres, outnumbered 45 to 22, shot down two MIGs Sunday, probably destroyed a third and damaged four. They were shielding allied fighter-bombers which knocked out two generators at the big Suiho hydroelectric plant on the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria.

More than 500 air force, marine and U. S. carrier planes turned the giant Suiho plant—the world's fourth largest—into a pile of junk last June 23, but the Communists evidently had rebuilt it.

Today's target for the big allied air strike was Kyomipo, about 20 miles southwest of the Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Participating in the stepped-up air blows were Marine Capt. Ted Williams, famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, and air force Maj. James Jabara, America's first jet ace who is flying his second combat tour in Korea.

Williams' fighter-bomber developed trouble over the Kyomipo target area—presumably hit by ground fire. He managed to get the plane back to an allied air strip and crash landed. He walked away from the wrecked and blazing plane.

Jabara, from Wichita, Kas., was credited with damaging a MIG—the first claim of his second combat tour after 20 or more fruitless missions. On his first tour Jabara destroyed six MIGs, probably destroyed another and damaged four.

Allied warships meanwhile began the third year of their bombardment and seige of the eastern Korean port of Wonsan. The U. S. heavy cruiser Toledo and two destroyers, the Wedderburn and Moore, shelled shore installations.

The seige of Wonsan is the longest in U. S. naval history. It began Feb. 16, 1951, after the U. S. First Marine Division and other UN units were evacuated in the Eighth Army's retreat from North Korea.

AP Correspondent Olen Clements, aboard the U. S. carrier Valley Forge, described Wonsan as "a battered hulk of rubble and death." He said the city, which once had a population of 100,000 and was eastern Korea's trans-

Prison Association Urges Broad Program of Reform

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP) — Prison riots like those that have spread across the nation "could happen" in New York state, the State Prison Association says in urging a broad program of institutional reform here.

The private group, in its annual report to the Legislature, said last night that no serious outbreak had occurred in the Empire State since disturbances at Auburn in 1929.

"We would like to feel that this is the result of good management rather than simply good luck, but let no one rest assured that 'it can't happen here'," the group said.

It recommended specifically that a more "scientific distribution" of prisoners be worked out in an effort to place inmates among those of their own classification.

The organization said prisoners at Walkill Prison, Coxsackie Vocational Institute and the Elmira Reception Center were screened scientifically.

"In the run-of-the-mill prisons, however, such as Sing Sing, Dannemora, Green Haven and the others, there is the problem of prisoner distribution," the group asserted.

The association urged the legislature to approve proposals by Gov. Dewey's administration to convert Great Meadow prison into a confinement center for more hardened young criminals. It also recommended that the admission age at Elmira Reformatory be raised from 21 to 25, and that a permanent institute on crime and delinquency be set up at St. Lawrence University.

Many of the prison riots in the country last year were related to personnel shortcomings, "both

Stevenson Will Not Bar Path for Any Candidates in 1956

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson apparently intends to keep himself available for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination but will put no barrier in the path of any other potential candidate.

Here to confer with members of Congress and other Democratic leaders, the 1952 nominee continued to turn away with jesting replies all queries about his political future.

Asked at a reception yesterday for Democratic legislators if he would be running for office in 1956, Stevenson quipped:

"I may be running for cover. But maybe that won't be necessary then."

He made it plain that he has no intention to oppose Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) in the latter's expected bid for renomination in 1954.

"Douglas is a friend of mine and I wouldn't run against him under any circumstances," Stevenson declared.

Will Be Available

Democrats who have sounded out his thinking on his political future say they are convinced Stevenson will be available for the party's nomination in 1956, but he will not attempt to shut off other possible aspirants.

These Democrats said Stevenson gives every evidence that he would be happy if some other candidate came forward. But these persons say he is realistic enough to believe that there is now no one in the party who can be re-

Tax Cut Is Agreed Upon

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee today approved a bill to cut income tax rates 10 per cent, effective June 30.

The tax cut was sponsored by Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.), chairman of the committee.

His bill was passed by the committee despite President Eisenhower's recommendation that no action be taken on an income tax until steps have been taken to balance the budget.

Reed said the vote at a closed committee meeting was 21 to 4 in favor of his proposal. One Democrat and three Republicans voted against it. Twelve Republicans and nine Democrats were for it.

Proposals Offered

Hearing Resumes On Station Closing

At an adjourned hearing before Hearing Commissioner F. L. Titus of the Public Service Commission at the court house on the application of the New York Central Railroad to close the Ulster Park station, most of the morning session was taken up with the introduction of amended schedules of revenue.

At the last hearing on January 12, schedules of revenue from passenger traffic, freight and express business were offered. Those schedules were for a nine months period in 1952. These schedules were amended to cover the full year and also errors found in the prior schedules were corrected today.

Frederick Stang appeared for the town of Esopus and Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the railroad.

Decreases Noted

L. G. Kimball testified in regard to express revenues. The amended schedules indicated slight decreases in express revenue from the prior schedules.

Freight revenuers were testified to by Stephen Keating and the amended schedules indicated about $200 less than the prior statements. Clerical errors were credited with being responsible.

Passenger revenues for the January 1952 to September 30, 1952, were testified to as being $157.42. The total passenger revenue for the entire year was $239.20 as credited to the Ulster Park station. Stang inquired as to how the credit was arrived at and whether tickets sold on trains for Ulster Park were credited to the station revenue. He was informed that such sales were not credited to the station, only sales which were made at the station and credited to the station on the agent's books were credited to the station.

Revenue Is Cited

Assistant Passenger Agent LaFond of Albany testified the revenue from passenger traffic for 1952 was $157.42 as credited to the station. He said revenue from sales at the station were the principal item which was used as a determining figure in making application for closing a station although he would also consider the use of the station as being a factor.

He testified that since December 1951 the Ulster Park station had been removed from the list of stations which may use pre-paid order forms and no credit for pre-paid tickets had been credited to the station in 1952.

One witness at the prior hearing testified she had bought tickets amounting to $239.50 at the Ulster Park station in 1952. All of this sale apparently was not credited to the station under the accounting system.

In 1951 the revenue at Ulster Park from passenger traffic was $503.41 and $99 of that business was from pre-paid tickets. The witness was asked whether he considered $99 out of a total of $503.41 in pre-paid business did not warrant continuance of the pre-paid ticket sale account.

In 1950 the ticket sale credited to Ulster Park was $479.30 and in 1949 $782.88.

U. S. Planes Chase Russian Fighters Over North Japan

Tokyo, Feb. 16 (AP)—Two U. S. warplanes challenged two Russian-type fighters over northern Japan today, damaged one in a brief skirmish, and chased both intruders to the Soviet-held Kurile Islands, the Far East Air Forces said.

It was the first time Soviet-type planes had appeared over northern Japan since the government, with strong U. S. backing, on Jan. 13, warned her mighty neighbor to the north against unauthorized flights.

The air force identified the planes as LA-11's, a Russian-built prop-driven single seat fighter in the 400-mile per hour class. The American planes were F-84 Thunderjets, fast planes but considerably slower than the mid-killing Sabre jet veterans of MIG Alley.

The air force announcement said the Thunderjets intercepted the LA-11's near Nemuro on the eastern tip of northern Hokkaido this morning. They signalled the intruders to land, one Thunderjet opened fire when the order was ignored.

Hit in Fuselage

One of the LA-11's was hit in the fuselage and wings.

Both planes fled toward the Kuriles.

The Thunderjets broke off the chase "to avoid violation of Russian-held territory," the air force said.

It is only 4½ miles from Nemuro to the nearest Russian-held island. Japan's air boundary is only 2¼ miles from the tip of the peninsula—just brief seconds in a jet.

The Thunderjets were on a routine patrol mission when radar operators on the ground spotted the intruders. The radar men flashed the signal that sent the U. S. planes roaring in pursuit.

It was in the same general area, within sight of the Kuriles, that a U. S. B-29 Superfort was shot down Oct. 7. Russia protested to the U. S. that the Superfort violated Russian territory and opened fire on Soviet planes. The U. S., in reply, denied both charges and said the Superfort was not armed.

The FEAF gave few details of today's action. It did not speculate on the nationality of the LA-11 pilots. In the Japanese foreign office, a spokesman said "your guess is as good as mine" about identity of the pilots.

Air bases in Japan had orders not to comment.

Small Hope Is Held

Buffalo, Feb. 16 (AP)—Hope faded almost to the vanishing point today for the lives of four Niagara University students missing Friday in a rented airplane. But sheriffs' deputies and Civil Air Patrol pilots planned, weather permitting, to fly again in an air search of 10,000 square miles of western New York and northwestern Pennsylvania. The four rented a Stinson four-seater to drop leaflets on the St. Bonaventure University campus at Olean before a basketball game.

No Goal Is Set

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman of the committee, in an interview this morning said, "We have set no goal in dollars for this drive, feeling that the people of Kingston will give to the limit of their capacity, motivated by a very definite feeling of kinship and friendship for the people of the Netherlands. Many of our citizens still remember the very gracious visit of Queen Juliana last year for our 300th Anniversary and are anxious to show their appreciation for the distinction bestowed upon us by contributing to this Queen's Fund. You know, Kingston will send the proceeds of this drive to Queen Juliana personally for her disposition, as a mark of gratitude."

Jack Feye, chairman of the committee, said this morning, "Never has the city of Kingston seen such a spontaneous and wholehearted response to any appeal. Every single organization asked to assist in the citywide canvas for funds agreed instantly and enthusiastically. It makes me proud to live in a city that has a heart as big as Kingston's."

A jailer said Donahue sits silently and alone, except for a 24-hour guard posted outside the cell.

Mountain Blows Top

Kodiak, Alaska, Feb. 16 (AP)—famed Mount Katmai on the Alaska peninsula, quiet for 41 years, blew its celebrated top late yesterday in a major eruption that sent a column of smoke towering 30,000 feet into the air and started filling nearby valleys with ash. There was no immediate word whether any villages in the primitive and sparsely populated area were threatened. Military fliers who flew near the 7,250 foot volcano said it still was belching fire and smoke last night. Mount Katmai's last big rampage in 1912 covered Kodiak Island, 110 miles to the southeast, with two feet of ash and deposited 500 feet of ashes in the Valley of 10,000 smokes close by. The towns of Katmai, on the peninsula, and Kodiak had to be evacuated.

portation hub, has been reduced to an estimated 30,000 Communist soldiers and a handful of civilians.

On the battle front allied infantrymen threw back five small Communist probes in predawn darkness. Temperatures dropped below zero all along the front.

The eighth army said the largest Chinese attack was by a reinforced squad southwest of Jackson Heights on the central front. Five Reds were reported killed.

South Korean infantrymen countered with raids on two Chinese positions southwest of Kumsong in the central sector. The ROKS said they seized the positions, killed or wounded 27 Chinese and captured five machine guns before returning to their lines.

The Eighth Army's new commander, Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, indicated there might be some unpleasant surprises for the Communists.

Taylor told a news conference the 17-nation army is "a formidable military force which has accomplished great things in the past and is capable of further achievements in the future."

He added that he would like nothing better than to meet a Communist offensive. Taylor said also that Korea offered great opportunities for "ingenious and unorthodox commanders." But he did not indicate what unorthodox strategy he might have in mind.

Taylor visited South Korean units at the front today in continuing his personal schedule of frequently inspecting fighting troops.

He told correspondents he would keep up this busy schedule until he gets to know all of his units and their commanders. He has visited the front three times since assuming command Wednesday.

Williams Tells Story

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—Ted Williams slid home today—safely.

The famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, now a marine captain and pilot, crash-landed his burning Panther jet fighter-bomber at a forward base after taking part in a 200-plane strike in North Korea.

Williams, on his first Korean combat mission (he had two tag-along flights to learn the terrain) fought his warplane back across the lines and belly landed when his wheels stuck.

On the harrowing flight his radio went out, his ailerons stuck, his plane was on fire and his airspeed indicator quit.

Despite it all, he was able to walk away from his damaged plane. There was no indication he suffered any injuries.

Williams said his pass over the target, a sprawling Red troop and supply center near the Red Korean capital, Pyongyang, was "a smooth run."

"I can't understand it," he said. "I didn't feel a thing hit me."

Fellow pilots, however, said Williams' plane was blazing when it left the target, and flames were seen coming from the brake ports all the way back to the forward base.

Presumably the Panther jet was hit by Red ground fire.

"As I came off the target, my light indicator showed that my wheels were down, but I got them up all right, Williams said. "Then the stick started to shake like mad in my hand.

"I tried to call one of my companions to get a visual check but my radio was out."

Williams then climbed to gain altitude, and headed toward the nearest allied air base.

"As I neared the base the aileron started to get stiff so I turned off the hydraulic boost. I had to use both hands on the stick on the final approach I thought I was going too fast but when I looked at my airspeed indicator, it wasn't working. It showed zero."

Furthermore, the former Boston outfielder declared, his wing flaps weren't working and his wheels wouldn't go down.

"There was nothing to do but belly in. I hit pretty hard and went chugging down the runway. I thought I would never stop. I jerked the emergency release on the canopy and got it off, then I practically fell out of the airplane."

Proposal Is Rejected

Indianapolis, Feb. 16 (AP)—International Typographical Union headquarters reported today its members have turned down a proposal to levy a two per cent assessment for a defense fund. The vote in the referendum Jan. 28 was 46,356 to 25,471. The proposal also was rejected in a referendum held last October. The assessment was proposed to provide a fund to pay strike benefits and to be used in part for operation of union newspapers.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—An 80-year-old man was found alive in an embalming room two hours after the family doctor had issued a death certificate. William C. Woman Is Held For Grand Jury

Taken before Justice of the Peace William J. Upright of the town of Lloyd on Saturday, Helen M. Chambers, 32, of 9 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie, waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a first degree robbery charge.

Mrs. Chambers was arrested on Jan. 27 with James E. Raymo, Sr., 34, of 514 Main street, Poughkeepsie, on an accusation that they and a third person robbed LeRoy Clifford, 72, of 85 Cedar street, of more than $100 after beating him and leaving him unconscious along a back road near Highland last September. The third alleged member of the trio, Roy Weeks, at the time of the arrests was in the Dutchess county jail awaiting disposition of another charge, troopers said.

Raymo waived examination at the time of his arrest, but Mrs. Chambers had requested a preliminary examination. She canceled this request and waived examination on Saturday, after which she was returned to the county jail by Trooper Michael Lisman, the arresting officer, to await grand jury action.

Would Open New Spot

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) said today President Eisenhower wants to make a cabinet-rank government department out of the Federal Security Administration and has set machinery in motion to create such a department. Taft, the Senate Republican floor leader, gave this word to reporters after a 40-minute meeting of congressional leaders with the President. He said much of the session was spent in discussion on the question of repudiating certain "secret agreements" made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Some progress was made toward drafting a repudiation resolution such as Eisenhower has called for, Taft added.

No Plans on Buying

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—There are no official plans to put consumer buying back under credit controls, the Federal Reserve Board made clear last night. A board spokesman reported "some pressure" from unidentified sources for restoring regulation "W"—the consumer credit control, suspended last May 7, which required 15 per cent down and no more than 18 months to pay on most household goods. But the official said his agency believes the present big volume of consumer credit is not too large in vew of the high rate of national income. Besides, he said, credit controls are "a big headaches for the board to enforce."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Feb. 12: Net budget receipts $181,223,-047.99; budget expenditures $173,-919,698.66; cash balance $5,852,-377,482.55; customs receipts for month $20,023,418.49; budget receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $34,779,271,206.58; budget expenditures for fiscal year $44,585,-509,459.53; budget deficit $9,806,-238,252.95; total debt $267,408,-926,415.10; increase over previous day $3,301,495.02; gold assets $22,831,160,828.67.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—With trading definitely on the quiet side, the stock market today held a steady course.

Much of the time the market pointed higher, but there seldom was enough vigor to that move to establish the trend.

Prices spread out over a fractional range that seldom went as far as a point. Trading proceeded at a pace below Friday's 1,350,000 shares.

The lifting of price controls in new fields made little market impression. Even the enthusiasm for motion picture and theatre issues based on the three-dimensional vogue seemed to simmer down to a low key.

Tax Cut Agreed

the administration takes a firm stand on Reed's tax cutting drive and until the administration gives some report on the effects of the bill.

Eisenhower has declared a hands-off policy on the tax cutting bill for the time being. Democrats have assailed him for this, claiming he should have taken a definte position.

All the Democratic proposals were defeated by a straight party vote—15 Republicans to 10 Democrats.

The future fate of Reed's bill is uncertain. It could get tied up for a long time in the rules committee.

Pawling Man Is Held On Abandonment Count

New Milford, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—Everett Martin, 37, of Pawling, N. Y., was arrested by state police here yesterday on a charge of abandoning his wife and their seven children.

State Policeman Robert Waltz said he arrested Martin in the New Haven Railroad station here on a warrant issued by Prosecutor Robert E. Perkins of nearby Warren.

According to Perkins, Martin brought his family to the home of George Finney, a distant relative last week and asked for lodging for them while he sought a job.

Perkins said Martin had been missing since Thursday.

The Pawling man is being held at Litchfield state police barracks pending court arraignment.

Detective Sammons and Officer Crespino, with drawn revolvers went up a ladder for the two and ordered them down. The officers descended behind the two.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, who had set up a special system in the department's effort to solve the recent wave of local burglaries, today commended the men of the department for their "excellent work." He particularly praised the "good work" of Officers Janasiewicz and Tomshaw.

Detective Brophy said that the two had confessed to entering the Sam Kogon store on North Front street, the Spada Sport Shop, Samuels Market, the Strauss store, and the Supreme Beverage Company building today, along with the Empire Diner and the others previously mentioned.

The blotter report said that the car used by the two bore a license plate reported stolen from the Kingston Coal Co., on Feb. 6.

The two are charged with having taken $500 in checks and $400 in cash after breaking into the Empire Diner several weeks ago. More recently, it is charged, they broke into the Greenkill Restaurant on Greenkill avenue and took a safe containing about $50. They got about $100 and some merchandise from the Artcraft Camera Shop, but only got about $17 after allegedly entering the A & P Market on Prince street.

The youths were unarmed when the police closed in on them this morning, Brophy said, but the 30-30 calibre rifle in the car was loaded.

Hope Abandoned

mail bag containing Valentines, clothing and personal items.

The plane came down in water 90 feet deep. Heavy seas caused it to break up and allow bodies of the victims to float to the surface.

Ensign Frank Polk, aboard a patrol boat, said the bodies were floating around when his craft arrived on the scene early Sunday afternoon.

"Judging from the appearance of the bodies," Polk added, "I would say they were all killed instantly. None had life jackets on."

Bodies on Cutter

Most of the bodies recovered were put on the Coast Guard Cutter Blackthorn for transfer to the mainland.

Among the passengers was Second Lt. Richard Harrison Shaddick, Jr., 22, whose brother, Second Lt. John Phillip Shaddick, 25-year-old bomber pilot, is reported missing in action in Korea.

Richard Shaddick of Coral Gables, Fla., their father, said he and his wife were "all cut to pieces." I just don't know how we'll survive if Richard is missing too."

Another passenger was Mrs. J. Cornelius Rathbone, New Orleans society leader, active Republican worker and member of a well-known Maryland family. Her husband is a prominent business man.

Mrs. Alfred Bergman was en route to visit her husband in Houston, Tex. Friends said that before she boarded the plane she told them "I don't think I'll ever make it." Mrs. Bergman's first husband was the late Billy De Beck, creator of the Barney Google comic strip.

Nominations Are Made

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower sent to the Senate today the nomination of Clare Boothe Luce to be ambassador to Italy. He also nominated Lloyd A. Mashburn of California for undersecretary of labor. Both appointments had been announced previously. Mrs. Luce, a former congresswoman, is the wife of Henry Luce, editor of Time, Life and Fortune Magazines. Eisenhower also submitted the nomination of C. Douglas Dillon, head of the Dillon, Read investment banking firm, as ambassador to France.

Jackson Is Named

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today named C. D. Jackson, 50-year-old New York publisher, as his special assistant in charge of cold war planning. The appointment was announced by Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President. He said Jackson would serve as a liaison official between the various government departments and agencies active in psychological warfare strategy.

Defense Request For Funds Rejected

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—A Defense Department request for $1,200,000,000 in new funds for the current year was rejected in full today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee said the department should use available funds to finance the programs for which the new money had been requested.

Most of the new money sought was for army, navy and air force military pay, increases in which were voted by Congress since the last Defense Department budget was approved.

Comes From Truman

The request for additional funds came from former President Truman before he left office last month. In some cases, President Eisenhower revised the requests, but in others he made no changes.

The additional money asked was for use during the balance of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. The committee said no vital programs would be hurt if the extra money were taken from other funds available to the department.

The defense fund requests were considered along with recommendations for additional money for numerous other agencies. The committee action cleared for floor debate tomorrow the first appropriation bill of the 83rd Congress.

Application Due For Special Term

An application to examine the grand jury minutes in the Samuel Schifano manslaughter, first degree, case will be heard before Justice Kenneth MacAffer at special term in Albany on Friday.

Notice of the application was served today on District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

Schifano was previously indicted for murder, first degree, for the death of Mrs. Emelia Nusca, 52, near Highland on June 23, 1952. An application was made to inspect those minutes and also for a dismissal of the indictment. County Judge John M. Cashin granted the motion to dismiss and directed the matter be re-submitted to the grand jury. A manslaughter indictment was returned on January 23, 1952. It is that indictment that the present motion is directed.

Mrs. Nusca was found by Troopers in her apartment with injuries from which she later died at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie. In the apartment was Schifano, also badly injured but he recovered. Nearby was a knife and hatchet.

Senator Harry Gittelson of New York appears for Schifano with Charles F. Gaffney of counsel.

No 'Socialized' Medicine

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—During the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby said yesterday, "there will be no socialized medicine, as it is popularly known." The new Federal Security administrator, appearing on a CBS television program, said the GOP platform and President Eisenhower's stated position clearly rule out such a 'possibility.' Many critics attached the "socialized medicine" label to former President Truman's proposal for pre-paid medical insurance financed by a payroll tax. Truman denied that it was any such thing.

Hearing Resumes On Station Closing

At an adjourned hearing before Hearing Commissioner F. L. Titus of the Public Service Commission at the court house on the application of the New York Central Railroad to close the Ulster Park station, most of the morning session was taken up with the introduction of amended schedules of revenue.

At the last hearing on January 12, schedules of revenue from passenger traffic, freight and express business were offered. Those schedules were for a nine months period in 1952. These schedules were amended to cover the full year and also errors found in the prior schedules were corrected today.

Frederick Stang appeared for the town of Esopus and Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the railroad.

Decreases Noted

L. G. Kimball testified in regard to express revenues. The amended schedules indicated slight decreases in express revenue from the prior schedules.

Freight revenuers were testified to by Stephen Keating and the amended schedules indicated about $200 less than the prior statements. Clerical errors were credited with being responsible.

Passenger revenues for the January 1952 to September 30, 1952, were testified to as being $157.42. The total passenger revenue for the entire year was $239.20 as credited to the Ulster Park station. Stang inquired as to how the credit was arrived at and whether tickets sold on trains for Ulster Park were credited to the station revenue. He was informed that such sales were not credited to the station, only sales which were made at the station and credited to the station on the agent's books were credited to the station.

Revenue Is Cited

Assistant Passenger Agent LaFond of Albany testified the revenue from passenger traffic for 1952 was $157.42 as credited to the station. He said revenue from sales at the station were the principal item which was used as a determining figure in making application for closing a station although he would also consider the use of the station as being a factor.

He testified that since December 1951 the Ulster Park station had been removed from the list of stations which may use pre-paid order forms and no credit for pre-paid tickets had been credited to the station in 1952.

One witness at the prior hearing testified she had bought tickets amounting to $239.50 at the Ulster Park station in 1952. All of this sale apparently was not credited to the station under the accounting system.

In 1951 the revenue at Ulster Park from passenger traffic was $503.41 and $99 of that business was from pre-paid tickets. The witness was asked whether he considered $99 out of a total of $503.41 in pre-paid business did not warrant continuance of the pre-paid ticket sale account.

In 1950 the ticket sale credited to Ulster Park was $479.30 and in 1949 $782.88.

U. S. Planes Chase Russian Fighters Over North Japan

Tokyo, Feb. 16 (AP)—Two U. S. warplanes challenged two Russian-type fighters over northern Japan today, damaged one in a brief skirmish, and chased both intruders to the Soviet-held Kurile Islands, the Far East Air Forces said.

It was the first time Soviet-type planes had appeared over northern Japan since the government, with strong U. S. backing, on Jan. 13, warned her mighty neighbor to the north against unauthorized flights.

The air force identified the planes as LA-11's, a Russian-built prop-driven single seat fighter in the 400-mile per hour class. The American planes were F-84 Thunderjets, fast planes but considerably slower than the mid-killing Sabre jet veterans of MIG Alley.

The air force announcement said the Thunderjets intercepted the LA-11's near Nemuro on the eastern tip of northern Hokkaido this morning. They signalled the intruders to land, one Thunderjet opened fire when the order was ignored.

Hit in Fuselage

One of the LA-11's was hit in the fuselage and wings.

Both planes fled toward the Kuriles.

The Thunderjets broke off the chase "to avoid violation of Russian-held territory," the air force said.

It is only 4½ miles from Nemuro to the nearest Russian-held island. Japan's air boundary is only 2¼ miles from the tip of the peninsula—just brief seconds in a jet.

The Thunderjets were on a routine patrol mission when radar operators on the ground spotted the intruders. The radar men flashed the signal that sent the U. S. planes roaring in pursuit.

It was in the same general area, within sight of the Kuriles, that a U. S. B-29 Superfort was shot down Oct. 7. Russia protested to the U. S. that the Superfort violated Russian territory and opened fire on Soviet planes. The U. S., in reply, denied both charges and said the Superfort was not armed.

The FEAF gave few details of today's action. It did not speculate on the nationality of the LA-11 pilots. In the Japanese foreign office, a spokesman said "your guess is as good as mine" about identity of the pilots.

Air bases in Japan had orders not to comment.

Small Hope Is Held

Buffalo, Feb. 16 (AP)—Hope faded almost to the vanishing point today for the lives of four Niagara University students missing Friday in a rented airplane. But sheriffs' deputies and Civil Air Patrol pilots planned, weather permitting, to fly again in an air search of 10,000 square miles of western New York and northwestern Pennsylvania. The four rented a Stinson four-seater to drop leaflets on the St. Bonaventure University campus at Olean before a basketball game.

No Goal Is Set

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman of the committee, in an interview this morning said, "We have set no goal in dollars for this drive, feeling that the people of Kingston will give to the limit of their capacity, motivated by a very definite feeling of kinship and friendship for the people of the Netherlands. Many of our citizens still remember the very gracious visit of Queen Juliana last year for our 300th Anniversary and are anxious to show their appreciation for the distinction bestowed upon us by contributing to this Queen's Fund. You know, Kingston will send the proceeds of this drive to Queen Juliana personally for her disposition, as a mark of gratitude."

Jack Feye, chairman of the committee, said this morning, "Never has the city of Kingston seen such a spontaneous and wholehearted response to any appeal. Every single organization asked to assist in the citywide canvas for funds agreed instantly and enthusiastically. It makes me proud to live in a city that has a heart as big as Kingston's."

Tribute Is Paid

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—More than a thousand persons from all walks of life today paid tribute to State Policeman Ernest Morse, 31, who was given a hero's funeral here. Morse, cut down by a bullet while investigating a stolen auto on the Merritt Parkway in Trumbull, Friday, was buried in his trooper's uniform. More than 400 police from 17 cities and towns and seven states were in the ranks of the funeral procession. Army buddies of the 42nd Division flew here from as far as California and Tennessee to take part. They were among the 14 persons who were honorary bearers. John Donahue, a 20-year-old Massachusetts reformatory parolee, is being held by police without bail in connection with the shooting in an isolated cell at Fairfield county jail at Bridgeport. A jailer said Donahue sits silently and alone, except for a 24-hour guard posted outside the cell.

Mountain Blows Top

Kodiak, Alaska, Feb. 16 (AP)—famed Mount Katmai on the Alaska peninsula, quiet for 41 years, blew its celebrated top late yesterday in a major eruption that sent a column of smoke towering 30,000 feet into the air and started filling nearby valleys with ash. There was no immediate word whether any villages in the primitive and sparsely populated area were threatened. Military fliers who flew near the 7,250 foot volcano said it still was belching fire and smoke last night. Mount Katmai's last big rampage in 1912 covered Kodiak Island, 110 miles to the southeast, with two feet of ash and deposited 500 feet of ashes in the Valley of 10,000 smokes close by. The towns of Katmai, on the peninsula, and Kodiak had to be evacuated.

Clark Lee Dies

Pebble Beach, Calif., Feb. 16 (AP)—Clark Lee, 46, one of the nation's top reporters who covered World War 2 from the fall of Bataan to the surrender of Japan, died yesterday of a heart attack. He and his wife, Liliuokuckalani, a Hawaiian princess he married in 1938, had returned from Spain only a few weeks ago. Lee's career—which began in 1929 when he joined The Associated Press—carried him throughout the world.

On the battle front allied infantrymen threw back five small Communist probes in predawn darkness. Temperatures dropped below zero all along the front.

The eighth army said the largest Chinese attack was by a reinforced squad southwest of Jackson Heights on the central front. Five Reds were reported killed.

South Korean infantrymen countered with raids on two Chinese positions southwest of Kumsong in the central sector. The ROKS said they seized the positions, killed or wounded 27 Chinese and captured five machine guns before returning to their lines.

The Eighth Army's new commander, Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, indicated there might be some unpleasant surprises for the Communists.

Taylor told a news conference the 17-nation army is "a formidable military force which has accomplished great things in the past and is capable of further achievements in the future."

He added that he would like nothing better than to meet a Communist offensive. Taylor said also that Korea offered great opportunities for "ingenious and unorthodox commanders." But he did not indicate what unorthodox strategy he might have in mind.

Taylor visited South Korean units at the front today in continuing his personal schedule of frequently inspecting fighting troops.

He told correspondents he would keep up this busy schedule until he gets to know all of his units and their commanders. He has visited the front three times since assuming command Wednesday.

Williams Tells Story

Seoul, Feb. 16 (AP)—Ted Williams slid home today—safely.

The famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, now a marine captain and pilot, crash-landed his burning Panther jet fighter-bomber at a forward base after taking part in a 200-plane strike in North Korea.

Williams, on his first Korean combat mission (he had two tag-along flights to learn the terrain) fought his warplane back across the lines and belly landed when his wheels stuck.

On the harrowing flight his radio went out, his ailerons stuck, his plane was on fire and his airspeed indicator quit.

Despite it all, he was able to walk away from his damaged plane. There was no indication he suffered any injuries.

Williams said his pass over the target, a sprawling Red troop and supply center near the Red Korean capital, Pyongyang, was "a smooth run."

"I can't understand it," he said. "I didn't feel a thing hit me."

Fellow pilots, however, said Williams' plane was blazing when it left the target, and flames were seen coming from the brake ports all the way back to the forward base.

Presumably the Panther jet was hit by Red ground fire.

"As I came off the target, my light indicator showed that my wheels were down, but I got them up all right, Williams said. "Then the stick started to shake like mad in my hand.

"I tried to call one of my companions to get a visual check but my radio was out."

Williams then climbed to gain altitude, and headed toward the nearest allied air base.

"As I neared the base the aileron started to get stiff so I turned off the hydraulic boost. I had to use both hands on the stick on the final approach I thought I was going too fast but when I looked at my airspeed indicator, it wasn't working. It showed zero."

Furthermore, the former Boston outfielder declared, his wing flaps weren't working and his wheels wouldn't go down.

"There was nothing to do but belly in. I hit pretty hard and went chugging down the runway. I thought I would never stop. I jerked the emergency release on the canopy and got it off, then I practically fell out of the airplane."

Proposal Is Rejected

Indianapolis, Feb. 16 (AP)—International Typographical Union headquarters reported today its members have turned down a proposal to levy a two per cent assessment for a defense fund. The vote in the referendum Jan. 28 was 46,356 to 25,471. The proposal also was rejected in a referendum held last October. The assessment was proposed to provide a fund to pay strike benefits and to be used in part for operation of union newspapers.

Man Finally Dies

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—An 80-year-old man was found alive in an embalming room two hours after the family doctor had issued a death certificate. William C. Brossman, of Brooklyn, was taken to a hospital where he died early today, more than 14 hours after being pronounced dead. The family physician, Dr. David Blumenfeld, of Queens, had listed arteriosclerotic heart disease, generalized arterio-sclerosis and senility on the death certificate.

Chemical Tests

used there convictions for drunken driving went up 222 per cent and the reduction in accidents due to drunken driving was about 50 per cent.

Rochester police have reported that convictions have increased substantially since the tests were put into operation there in 1949.

A person convicted of drunken driving for the first time is guilty of a misdemeanor and his operator's license is automatically revoked.

A second conviction is a felony, calling for a sentence of not less than 60 days nor more than two years in prison and/or a fine ranging from $200 to $2,000.

Two Persons Hurt In Local Collision

Two persons were injured slightly in a car-truck mishap at Broadway and St. James street Sunday.

Officers Peter Camp and Thomas McGrane reported at 12:57 p. m., that a wrecker owned and operated by Edward H. Franz, of 154 Clinton avenue, was headed north on St. James street and the sedan of Franklin Fisher, of 3451 Lynfield Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio, was going west on Broadway when they collided.

The report said the Misses Valentine and Amoryllis Peyre, of the Fisher car, were injured slightly. The former was treated at Kingston Hospital for a contusion of the lower lip. Both vehicles were damaged on the front.

Woman Is Held For Grand Jury

Taken before Justice of the Peace William J. Upright of the town of Lloyd on Saturday, Helen M. Chambers, 32, of 9 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie, waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a first degree robbery charge.

Mrs. Chambers was arrested on Jan. 27 with James E. Raymo, Sr., 34, of 514 Main street, Poughkeepsie, on an accusation that they and a third person robbed LeRoy Clifford, 72, of 85 Cedar street, of more than $100 after beating him and leaving him unconscious along a back road near Highland last September. The third alleged member of the trio, Roy Weeks, at the time of the arrests was in the Dutchess county jail awaiting disposition of another charge, troopers said.

Raymo waived examination at the time of his arrest, but Mrs. Chambers had requested a preliminary examination. She canceled this request and waived examination on Saturday, after which she was returned to the county jail by Trooper Michael Lisman, the arresting officer, to await grand jury action.

Would Open New Spot

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) said today President Eisenhower wants to make a cabinet-rank government department out of the Federal Security Administration and has set machinery in motion to create such a department. Taft, the Senate Republican floor leader, gave this word to reporters after a 40-minute meeting of congressional leaders with the President. He said much of the session was spent in discussion on the question of repudiating certain "secret agreements" made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Some progress was made toward drafting a repudiation resolution such as Eisenhower has called for, Taft added.

No Plans on Buying

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—There are no official plans to put consumer buying back under credit controls, the Federal Reserve Board made clear last night. A board spokesman reported "some pressure" from unidentified sources for restoring regulation "W"—the consumer credit control, suspended last May 7, which required 15 per cent down and no more than 18 months to pay on most household goods. But the official said his agency believes the present big volume of consumer credit is not too large in vew of the high rate of national income. Besides, he said, credit controls are "a big headaches for the board to enforce."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—With trading definitely on the quiet side, the stock market today held a steady course.

Much of the time the market pointed higher, but there seldom was enough vigor to that move to establish the trend.

Prices spread out over a fractional range that seldom went as far as a point. Trading proceeded at a pace below Friday's 1,350,000 shares.

The lifting of price controls in new fields made little market impression. Even the enthusiasm for motion picture and theatre issues based on the three-dimensional vogue seemed to simmer down to a low key.

Tax Cut Agreed

the administration takes a firm stand on Reed's tax cutting drive and until the administration gives some report on the effects of the bill.

Eisenhower has declared a hands-off policy on the tax cutting bill for the time being. Democrats have assailed him for this, claiming he should have taken a definte position.

All the Democratic proposals were defeated by a straight party vote—15 Republicans to 10 Democrats.

The future fate of Reed's bill is uncertain. It could get tied up for a long time in the rules committee.

Pawling Man Is Held On Abandonment Count

New Milford, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—Everett Martin, 37, of Pawling, N. Y., was arrested by state police here yesterday on a charge of abandoning his wife and their seven children.

State Policeman Robert Waltz said he arrested Martin in the New Haven Railroad station here on a warrant issued by Prosecutor Robert E. Perkins of nearby Warren.

According to Perkins, Martin brought his family to the home of George Finney, a distant relative last week and asked for lodging for them while he sought a job.

Perkins said Martin had been missing since Thursday.

The Pawling man is being held at Litchfield state police barracks pending court arraignment.

Detective Sammons and Officer Crespino, with drawn revolvers went up a ladder for the two and ordered them down. The officers descended behind the two.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, who had set up a special system in the department's effort to solve the recent wave of local burglaries, today commended the men of the department for their "excellent work." He particularly praised the "good work" of Officers Janasiewicz and Tomshaw.

Other Entries Listed

Detective Brophy said that the two had confessed to entering the Sam Kogon store on North Front street, the Spada Sport Shop, Samuels Market, the Strauss store, and the Supreme Beverage Company building today, along with the Empire Diner and the others previously mentioned.

The blotter report said that the car used by the two bore a license plate reported stolen from the Kingston Coal Co., on Feb. 6.

The two are charged with having taken $500 in checks and $400 in cash after breaking into the Empire Diner several weeks ago. More recently, it is charged, they broke into the Greenkill Restaurant on Greenkill avenue and took a safe containing about $50. They got about $100 and some merchandise from the Artcraft Camera Shop, but only got about $17 after allegedly entering the A & P Market on Prince street.

The youths were unarmed when the police closed in on them this morning, Brophy said, but the 30-30 calibre rifle in the car was loaded.

Hope Abandoned

mail bag containing Valentines, clothing and personal items.

The plane came down in water 90 feet deep. Heavy seas caused it to break up and allow bodies of the victims to float to the surface.

Ensign Frank Polk, aboard a patrol boat, said the bodies were floating around when his craft arrived on the scene early Sunday afternoon.

"Judging from the appearance of the bodies," Polk added, "I would say they were all killed instantly. None had life jackets on."

Bodies on Cutter

Most of the bodies recovered were put on the Coast Guard Cutter Blackthorn for transfer to the mainland.

Among the passengers was Second Lt. Richard Harrison Shaddick, Jr., 22, whose brother, Second Lt. John Phillip Shaddick, 25-year-old bomber pilot, is reported missing in action in Korea.

Richard Shaddick of Coral Gables, Fla., their father, said he and his wife were "all cut to pieces." I just don't know how we'll survive if Richard is missing too."

Another passenger was Mrs. J. Cornelius Rathbone, New Orleans society leader, active Republican worker and member of a well-known Maryland family. Her husband is a prominent business man.

Mrs. Alfred Bergman was en route to visit her husband in Houston, Tex. Friends said that before she boarded the plane she told them "I don't think I'll ever make it." Mrs. Bergman's first husband was the late Billy De Beck, creator of the Barney Google comic strip.

Nominations Are Made

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower sent to the Senate today the nomination of Clare Boothe Luce to be ambassador to Italy. He also nominated Lloyd A. Mashburn of California for undersecretary of labor. Both appointments had been announced previously. Mrs. Luce, a former congresswoman, is the wife of Henry Luce, editor of Time, Life and Fortune Magazines. Eisenhower also submitted the nomination of C. Douglas Dillon, head of the Dillon, Read investment banking firm, as ambassador to France.

Jackson Is Named

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today named C. D. Jackson, 50-year-old New York publisher, as his special assistant in charge of cold war planning. The appointment was announced by Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President. He said Jackson would serve as a liaison official between the various government departments and agencies active in psychological warfare strategy.

Defense Request For Funds Rejected

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—A Defense Department request for $1,200,000,000 in new funds for the current year was rejected in full today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee said the department should use available funds to finance the programs for which the new money had been requested.

Most of the new money sought was for army, navy and air force military pay, increases in which were voted by Congress since the last Defense Department budget was approved.

Comes From Truman

The request for additional funds came from former President Truman before he left office last month. In some cases, President Eisenhower revised the requests, but in others he made no changes.

The additional money asked was for use during the balance of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. The committee said no vital programs would be hurt if the extra money were taken from other funds available to the department.

The defense fund requests were considered along with recommendations for additional money for numerous other agencies. The committee action cleared for floor debate tomorrow the first appropriation bill of the 83rd Congress.

Application Due For Special Term

An application to examine the grand jury minutes in the Samuel Schifano manslaughter, first degree, case will be heard before Justice Kenneth MacAffer at special term in Albany on Friday.

Notice of the application was served today on District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

Schifano was previously indicted for murder, first degree, for the death of Mrs. Emelia Nusca, 52, near Highland on June 23, 1952. An application was made to inspect those minutes and also for a dismissal of the indictment. County Judge John M. Cashin granted the motion to dismiss and directed the matter be re-submitted to the grand jury. A manslaughter indictment was returned on January 23, 1952. It is that indictment that the present motion is directed.

Mrs. Nusca was found by Troopers in her apartment with injuries from which she later died at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie. In the apartment was Schifano, also badly injured but he recovered. Nearby was a knife and hatchet.

Senator Harry Gittelson of New York appears for Schifano with Charles F. Gaffney of counsel.

No 'Socialized' Medicine

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—During the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby said yesterday, "there will be no socialized medicine, as it is popularly known." The new Federal Security administrator, appearing on a CBS television program, said the GOP platform and President Eisenhower's stated position clearly rule out such a 'possibility.' Many critics attached the "socialized medicine" label to former President Truman's proposal for pre-paid medical insurance financed by a payroll tax. Truman denied that it was any such thing.

Appeals Are Made To President About Semitic Campaigns

United Nations, Feb. 16 (AP) — Leading Americans appealed to President Eisenhower yesterday for the United States to lead the United Nations in fighting the current anti-semitic campaigns in the Soviet Union and her satellites.

One group of 49 citizens in a joint letter to the U. S. President asked him to cut off point four or other U. S. aid to any country taking part in an anti-semitic campaign. They proposed also that the U. S. work in the UN for establishment of a "watchdog" committee to prevent anti-semitic violence as contrary to the UN charter.

Other Calls Made

Other calls for action were made in messages to a conference in New York of the National Committee for Labor Israel. A Zionist organization seeking particularly to aid Israel's labor federation, Histadurt. The conference adopted resolutions denouncing the Soviet policies of anti-Semitism.

Signers of the round-robin letter to Eisenhower included Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, president of the Methodist Church Council of Bishops; Dr. Joseph M. Dawson, executive director, public affairs committee, Baptists of the U. S.; Mrs. Wendell Willkie; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; Owen D. Young; Retired Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief U. S. prosecutor at the Nuernberg trials; Emily Greene Balch, co-winner of the 1946 Nobel Peace prize; William Emerson, Boston industrialist and president of the American Association of the UN; James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union; Arthur Spingarn, president of the National Association of Colored People, and William P. Tolley, chancellor of Syracuse University.

Calls It 'Genocide'

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says the purpose of Soviet anti-Semitism "is nothing less than Genocide."

The New York governor in a message yesterday to a conference of the National Committee for Labor Israel said that "this program of terror concerns not alone the people of Jewish faith * * * but also all Americans and all the free nations of the earth."

(Genocide is the mass extermination of a religious, national or racial group.)

Dewey's message was one of several denouncing Soviet persecution of Jews. Others came from U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, U. S. Sens. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) and Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), CIO President Walter P. Reuther and AFL President George Meany.

Lehman said Russian policies "may well augur new waves of terrorism and aggression, against which the free world must brace itself."

Ives Asks Action

Ives said he had asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the U. S. delegation to the United Nations to act through the UN "to bring these Soviet outrages before the bar of world opinion to the end that they will cease."

Meany also wrote of possible UN action, saying the U. S. must "insist that Communist Russia and its satellites be called to answer for these crimes before the United Nations."

The 1,000 delegates attending the conference adopted resolutions denouncing the Soviet policies. The Labor Israel Committee is a Zionist organization seeking particularly to aid the Israel Labor Federation, Histadrut.

Hearing Is Scheduled On Merchandise Frauds

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—A hearing to gather data for possible legislation against frauds in merchandising will be held in New York city Friday by the joint legislative committee on unfair trade practices.

In announcing the session yesterday, the committee said "primary emphasis will be on possible legislation to prevent frauds from being committed by removal of serial numbers, trade marks, or distinguishing or identification numbers" from products.

The chairman, GOP Sen. Frank S. McCollough of Rye, said the hearing would be at the Association of the Bar of the City of New York (42 west 44th St.) at 10 a. m.

Three Industries Hit by Racketeers, Crime Group Says

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—The New York City Anti-Crime Committee says there is racketeering in the fresh food, garment-trucking and building industries here that is "strikingly similar" to that exposed on the waterfront.

The committee also said in a report yesterday that if criminal syndicates "continue to expand at the present pace they will soon control our lives."

Underworld syndicates "are monopolizing our business, labor and politics," the report added.

Spruille Braden, chairman of the committee, and other officers said it had spent many months "investigating the hoodlum penetration" of the three industries listed. The committee, he added, found that "some of the self-same racketeers are the gang leaders in more than one field."

Formed in 1951

The committee, a privately financed group, was formed two years ago to help focus attention on organized crime and corruption. Its annual formal public report on its activities was issued by Braden, former ambassador to Argentina.

The report praised the New York State Crime Commission, named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, for the way it exposed crime and rackets on the piers at its recent public hearings. The report, however, declared opposition to creation of a permanent state crime commission, saying:

"Your committee, on principle, is opposed to the expansion of government. In particular it depreciates the creation by the federal, state or local governments of super-agencies to combat organized crime. They are not needed in this city.

"It would be premature and illogical to create a new super-agency before the reasons for the failure of the existing local agencies had been determined definitely."

The report did not name the state crime commission directly.

Appeals Are Made To President About Semitic Campaigns

United Nations, Feb. 16 (AP) — Leading Americans appealed to President Eisenhower yesterday for the United States to lead the United Nations in fighting the current anti-semitic campaigns in the Soviet Union and her satellites.

One group of 49 citizens in a joint letter to the U. S. President asked him to cut off point four or other U. S. aid to any country taking part in an anti-semitic campaign. They proposed also that the U. S. work in the UN for establishment of a "watchdog" committee to prevent anti-semitic violence as contrary to the UN charter.

Other Calls Made

Other calls for action were made in messages to a conference in New York of the National Committee for Labor Israel. A Zionist organization seeking particularly to aid Israel's labor federation, Histadurt. The conference adopted resolutions denouncing the Soviet policies of anti-Semitism.

Signers of the round-robin letter to Eisenhower included Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, president of the Methodist Church Council of Bishops; Dr. Joseph M. Dawson, executive director, public affairs committee, Baptists of the U. S.; Mrs. Wendell Willkie; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; Owen D. Young; Retired Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief U. S. prosecutor at the Nuernberg trials; Emily Greene Balch, co-winner of the 1946 Nobel Peace prize; William Emerson, Boston industrialist and president of the American Association of the UN; James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union; Arthur Spingarn, president of the National Association of Colored People, and William P. Tolley, chancellor of Syracuse University.

Calls It 'Genocide'

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says the purpose of Soviet anti-Semitism "is nothing less than Genocide."

The New York governor in a message yesterday to a conference of the National Committee for Labor Israel said that "this program of terror concerns not alone the people of Jewish faith * * * but also all Americans and all the free nations of the earth."

(Genocide is the mass extermination of a religious, national or racial group.)

Dewey's message was one of several denouncing Soviet persecution of Jews. Others came from U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, U. S. Sens. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) and Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), CIO President Walter P. Reuther and AFL President George Meany.

Lehman said Russian policies "may well augur new waves of terrorism and aggression, against which the free world must brace itself."

Ives Asks Action

Ives said he had asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the U. S. delegation to the United Nations to act through the UN "to bring these Soviet outrages before the bar of world opinion to the end that they will cease."

Meany also wrote of possible UN action, saying the U. S. must "insist that Communist Russia and its satellites be called to answer for these crimes before the United Nations."

The 1,000 delegates attending the conference adopted resolutions denouncing the Soviet policies. The Labor Israel Committee is a Zionist organization seeking particularly to aid the Israel Labor Federation, Histadrut.

Hearing Is Scheduled On Merchandise Frauds

Albany, Feb. 16 (AP)—A hearing to gather data for possible legislation against frauds in merchandising will be held in New York city Friday by the joint legislative committee on unfair trade practices.

In announcing the session yesterday, the committee said "primary emphasis will be on possible legislation to prevent frauds from being committed by removal of serial numbers, trade marks, or distinguishing or identification numbers" from products.

The chairman, GOP Sen. Frank S. McCollough of Rye, said the hearing would be at the Association of the Bar of the City of New York (42 west 44th St.) at 10 a. m.

Three Industries Hit by Racketeers, Crime Group Says

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—The New York City Anti-Crime Committee says there is racketeering in the fresh food, garment-trucking and building industries here that is "strikingly similar" to that exposed on the waterfront.

The committee also said in a report yesterday that if criminal syndicates "continue to expand at the present pace they will soon control our lives."

Underworld syndicates "are monopolizing our business, labor and politics," the report added.

Spruille Braden, chairman of the committee, and other officers said it had spent many months "investigating the hoodlum penetration" of the three industries listed. The committee, he added, found that "some of the self-same racketeers are the gang leaders in more than one field."

Formed in 1951

The committee, a privately financed group, was formed two years ago to help focus attention on organized crime and corruption. Its annual formal public report on its activities was issued by Braden, former ambassador to Argentina.

The report praised the New York State Crime Commission, named by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, for the way it exposed crime and rackets on the piers at its recent public hearings. The report, however, declared opposition to creation of a permanent state crime commission, saying:

"Your committee, on principle, is opposed to the expansion of government. In particular it depreciates the creation by the federal, state or local governments of super-agencies to combat organized crime. They are not needed in this city.

"It would be premature and illogical to create a new super-agency before the reasons for the failure of the existing local agencies had been determined definitely."

The report did not name the state crime commission directly.

EUROPE STILL AIMS AT UNITY

Secretary of State Dulles' conversations with French Premier Rene Mayer served to clear away some of the fog that lately has surrounded the status of the European unity movement.

At the same time, these Paris meetings illustrated sharply the value of face-to-face discussions in promoting the close understanding so vital to delicate issues.

On this occasion, French irritation over what was regarded as a shockingly blunt speech by Dulles in the United States largely vanished when Mayer and others found him sympathetic and wholly comprehending of French problems.

By the same token, Dulles learned that, though Mayer intends to seek changes in the European army treaty—current symbol of the unity effort—he nevertheless plans to push the modified program toward parliamentary ratification with all reasonable speed. This seemed to answer the secretary's chief worry as voiced in his American speech.

In other words, the unity movement may not be quite as thoroughly stalled as Dulles' blunt language suggested. And if this is so, it is good news for all the free world. Italy already has given its assurances of support, and Dulles expects similar encouragement from Chancellor Adenauer in West Germany.

The French now understand better that it is not American desire to dictate the terms and form European unity must follow, that it is our wish simply to lend the fullest encouragement and support to this program.

They undoubtedly grasp, too, that one of the things Dulles said so outspokenly in his maiden U. S. speech represents a reality the French cannot ignore: the growing reluctance of the American people, through their Congress, to go on extending financial aid to Europe without unmistakable signs that unity is coming closer. For unity is viewed here as one of the basic factors in the building of a genuinely self-reliant Europe.

As result of the Dulles visit, America for its part may realize that European leaders, despite slowdowns and digressions, manage to keep the unity objective steadily in view.

We possibly understand a little more that European leadership sometimes gets too far ahead of public opinion and must wait for it to catch up. Some of this difficulty, however, seems the fault of European statesmen—especially the French—who fear to take the unity issue openly and fully to the people.

Where we really need to exercise greater patience is in appreciating that Europe is trying to unite in a few short years a group of proud nations, each with its separate language and tradition, its nationalist flavor, and the centuries-old habit of living to itself as much as possible.

Even the urgent compulsions of the Communist menace cannot quickly demolish the stout national walls erected and maintained so painfully over so long a span.

POSITIVE ACTION

The new administration is moving under the impetus of the fresh start voters gave it on election day. Despite twenty years of habits, traditions and commitments inherited from previous administrations President Eisenhower has acted with energy and enthusiasm.

President Eisenhower spent the greater part of his life as a soldier. One of the tenets of military strategy is "when in doubt, attack." Faced with a number of complex situations to which there seems no quick or easy answer Eisenhower is determined to move. There is danger in this method but at least it is a positive approach and there can be no hope of settlement of our difficulties with a negative attitude.

We used to wonder what became of the ice man in the winter. Now we know. He gets a job in a factory making iceless refrigerators.

The person carrying the most prejudice is also likely to be the one hanging on to it the tightest.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A PROFESSOR SPEAKS

Professor Edward A. Shils of the University of Chicago has an explanation for the unwillingness of the State Department to give visas to some foreign scientists to come to this country because they have bad reputations in their own countries. He said, according to "The Saturday Evening Post":

"The excessive preoccupation with the dangers of revolutionary subversion, arising from a compound of xenophobia, distrust of the educated and of intellectual activity, and the animosity of the professional politician against the usually better educated civil servants—all aggravated by the system of the separation of powers which creates a nearly permanent war between legislative and executive branches of our Federal Government—brings us to our present position."

Now that is an amazing sentence which needs commentary almost word for word. Take the clause "excessive preoccupation with the dangers of revolutionary subversion"—what can that mean? If revolutionary subversion exists, how can a government be excessively preoccupied with it, unless that government cares nothing for its people, its culture and civilization?

Is it not a normal function of government to protect its country? Is not revolution as perilous as war?

Now we come to xenophobia. This is a fancy word for dislike of the stranger. How can that be said when the fact is that this country, even today, has one of the most liberal immigration policies of any country on earth, admitting persons from all continents, in spite of restrictions, more freely than most other countries? Compare, for instance, our immigration laws with those of Soviet Russia!

So, we come to a "distrust of the educated and of intellectual activity." What are the facts? This country supports more schools, more universities, more research laboratories, more PH. D.'s per capita than most countries.

It is unrealistic to state that Americans distrust the educated; on the contrary, it is a habit in this country to assume that if a man achieves high status in one intellectual discipline, he knows everything. For instance, while Professor Albert Einstein is a great physicist and an authority on Mozart, it is doubtful that he can read and understand a law passed by Congress on the subject of immigration. Similarly, while James B. Conant of Harvard is an outstanding chemist, does that make him a diplomat? Perhaps he is, but the evidence on the subject is still to be established.

The American people have an extraordinary regard for the man of learning. Unfortunately, some men of learning do not take that respect with the humility of spirit and sense of deep responsibility which such faith in them should evoke. They too often believe the good things that are said about them.

Now comes the phrase, "the animosity of the professional politician against the usually better educated civil servants"—a statement which is a strange departure from factual data and therefore lacking in intellectual discipline. Most of the members of Congress are university graduates and lawyers. If they are not adequately educated, it must be the fault of the universities which they attended. Those universities are, in the main, the same ones from which come the civil servants and other schooled men and women. The most representative body of our professional politicians is in Congress, the Cabinet, and in the courts.

I choose the Senate of the 82nd Congress as an example: The Senate consists of 96 members; 83 reported attendance at and graduation from one or more universities, some with more than one degree. Of those who do not report their university records, a few are lawyers and therefore are likely to have attended colleges. This record will show favorably with most categories of civil servants.

While I do not believe that college attendance should be a qualification for election to Congress, it does prove that Professor Shils has not taken the trouble to get at the facts, which he could have done by the same method as I did, namely, count noses in the "Congressional Directory." Maybe the professor never heard of this reference book.

The learned profesor also objects to the separation of powers, provided by our Constitution, to safeguard our people from tyranny. Maybe, he prefers tyranny; if not, why object to this fundamental doctrine of American political life? What would Professor Shils substitute for it?

I looked in several usual reference books to discover who Professor Shils is. There was no information.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

REST TUBERCULOSIS LUNG

I have written before of making a social visit to a young man in a tuberculosis sanitarium and while there; a heavyweight boxer was assigned to the next bed. As he greeted me, he said, "Well here I am for the next two years if I want to save my life. They tell me I must rest in bed to give my bad lung a complete rest so it will heal!"

It so happens that this was the regulation method of resting a diseased lung at that time, but, fortunately, there are now several ways of resting the affected lung which greatly shortens the stay in hospital or sanitarium.

One of these first methods was pneumothorax, treatment in which air is pumped into the cavity containing the lung. This air braces the lung, not allowing it to move and so giving it a chance to heal. This method is still used in many cases and also surgical methods—cutting ribs and cutting nerve supply—both methods preventing movement of the affected lung. In some cases a whole lobe of the affected lung is removed by surgery.

However, some years ago what is called pneumoperitoneum (peritoneum is lining of abdomen), filling the abdomen with air which presses up against the floor of the lungs and prevents movement or much movement, came into use. Naturally this pneumoperitoneum treatment is welcomed by patient and physician and we can understand why when we study the results obtained by filling and refilling abdomen with air.

In Diseases of the Chest, Chicago, Drs. F. Crenshaw and J. H. Gross state that they first used pneumoperitoneum in 1937 and for the first two years it was used only in advanced cases where both lungs were affected, sputum positive, and cavities in both lungs. These cases were considered hopeless. Drs. Crenshaw and Gross were so pleased with the results even in these serious or hopeless cases that they started, in 1941, using pneumoperitoneum in more hopeful cases and today it is the preferred method of collapsing and so resting a tuberculosis lung in both their institutions.

"For the past two years there have been ten times as many pneumoperitoneum treatments as pneumothorax treatments." With an average number of 1,500 patients, these physicians give an average of 25,000 fillings a year. They have used pneumoperitoneum in conjection with phrenemphraxis (crushing nerve supplying lungs) on the most affected side in most of 560 men and women with slight, medium or advanced pulmonary tuberculosis. Of these, 246 have been successfully treated and most of them discontinued pneumoperitoneum in 2 to 10 years.

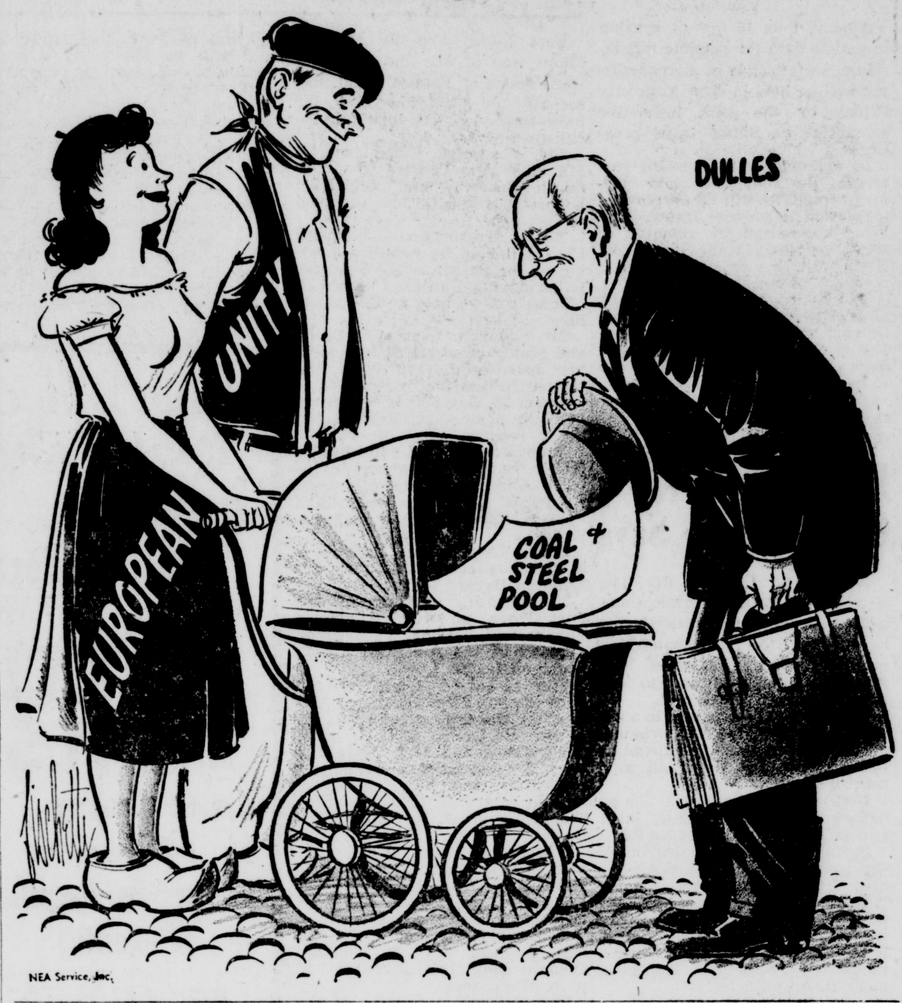

When we compare pneumoperitoneum with the months and years of treatment of bed rest, it means much to patients and families of patients when this method can be used.

"Good Beginning"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Complete blockade of the Communist China coast and turning loose the forces of Chiang Kai-shek against the China mainland raise certain practical problems for the people who would have to carry out such measures.

This may be one of the more important reasons why Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was able to tell the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the Eisenhower administration had no plans for such a blockade now.

As psychological warfare or cold war pressure against the Communists, the talk of more positive action is tops. It throws the Reds off balance and puts them on the defensive.

The current impression that these are brand new ideas, however, is not absolutely accurate. Ever since President Eisenhower returned from Korea in December, the additional measures that might be taken to shorten the Korean war have been openly talked about.

The apparent intent has been to let the American people and the leaders and people of other United Nations think these matters through and get used to the ideas they present. To be effective any new actions in the Pacific must have support of the people at home, for increased casualties may be involved in the beginning.

In addition to withdrawal of the U. S. Seventh Fleet from the straits of Formosa and imposition of a blockade against Red China, these other possible actions have been given consideration:

Equipping of 10 or more new South Korean divisions.

Sending three or more U. S. divisions to the Orient.

More American aid for Indo-China, to end that war.

Bombing of Manchurian bases north of the Yalu river.

Would Be Calculated Risk

It has been emphasized that a year or more might be required to complete all these plans. Withdrawal of the Seventh Fleet may therefore be considered only a first step.

Blockade of the China coast might be a natural second step. In carrying this out, however, certain precautions might have to be considered.

A blockade by one country against the commerce of another is an act war. It can be argued—as Senator Taft argues—that the U. S. is already at war with Red China, and they started it.

A blockade of Red China by the U. S. would be a calculated risk. The showdown on the blockade would come when the U. S. Navy stopped a Russian freighter bound from, say Vladivostok to Port Arthur.

It is possible that nothing might come of it. The Russians have shot down several U. S. and Swedish patrol planes without starting any war.

There is a way to avoid this risk by having the United Nations declare the blockade. This would be going only one step beyond action already taken by the UN.

In February, 1951, the UN General Assembly declared Communist China an aggressor in Korea. An Additional Measures Committee of representatives from 14 nations was named to recommend appropriate action.

In May, 1951, this committe recommended a "strategic embargo" against Red China. It called up all nations to refrain from sending arms and military supplies to the aggressors. The U. S. had previously declared a total embargo on shipments to the Communist countries, but other nations did no go that far.

Questions Must Be Weighed

The UN Additional Measures Committee is still in existence, though it has not met for some time. A logical step when the UN General Assembly reconvenes at the end of February would be a proposal for a complete blockade of the China coast.

Whether the General Assembly would approve such a blockade is anybody's guess. If it did, it would provide the backing of international law for an embargo that would not be an act of war. If it didn't, then the U. S. would have to decide whether to act alone.

There are certain practical strategic questions that have to be considered before putting a blockade into effect.

The U. S. Navy does not now have enough strength in the Pacific to impose a tight blockade on the entire 2000-mile China coast. If all bays and indentations are included, the coastline is 4000 miles. Stopping all coastwise smugglers in junks might be difficult, but it could be done.

If Red China decided to retaliate by an attack on Hong Kong, provision would have to be made to feed and defend that British island. As a listening post and as a base for any future actions on the mainland of China, retention of Hong Kong is considered important.

In view of the possibility of a blockade, any order withdrawing the U. S. Seventh Fleet from the straits of Formosa would become somewhat meaningless. For a blockade would send the fleet back in greater strength.

Woman Motorist on Spree

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — A 26-year-old woman motorist was finally overhauled by a police car after a wild ride which resulted in her being charged with nine traffic violations. Before a police officer arrested her she had hit a school bus, an automobile and an electric signal. The officer had to crash his car into hers to make her stop. Then while he was radioing headquarters she suddenly stepped on the gas and zoomed away in her convertible. The policeman took off in pursuit. This time she sideswiped a car and was zipping along at 80 miles per hour on the left side of the road before overtaken the second time. Three charges of hit-and-run were placed against her, three of not stopping at stop signs, in addition to speeding, ignoring a patrolman's signals to stop and reskless driving.

University's Survey Is Example of Real Public Service Opinion Polls Can Give

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 16 — There's much food for thought in the results of a post-election survey made by the survey research center of the University of Michigan just announced. It could influence the thinking and the course of action of both parties in Congress between now and the next elections.

The study—which was scientifically conducted, with interviews among voters of all kinds, both before and after the election—is an example of the real service that public-opinion polls can render when they confine themselves to research on the behavior of the electorate rather than to predictions of the outcome of elections.

The University of Michigan's fact-finders reveal that General Eisenhower won by "swinging a substantial number of Democrats into the Republican column while holding virtually all of the traditional Republican voters."

It was found, too, that "one out of five votes came from Democrats who crossed party lines" and that "independent voters, those with no customary party preference, also went for Eisenhower by a two-to-one margin."

Thus, there is support for both of the views held by Republican theorists before the election. Senator Taft always argued that the Republicans could win by holding their own vote and converting Democrats who thought the same way. Others insisted that the "Independent" voters who had no particular party ties constituted the balance of power.

The Michigan research report says that the Eisenhower victory wasn't brought about "by the defection of any particular group from the Democratic ranks, but by a general shift toward the Republican candidate in almost all classes of voters."

Labor leaders will note that the Michigan interviewers discovered that, while "labor-union members and blue-collar workers stayed in the Democratic column in 1952, Stevenson's lead among them was less than that piled up by President Truman in 1948." But white-collar workers, who had split evenly in 1948, gave Eisenhower a five-to-three majority in 1952, and farmers "swung heavily into the Republican column."

The failure of more votes to go to the Republican congressional nominees from those who balloted in favor of Mr. Eisenhower is noted, but the reasons are not yet available, as there will be further reports from this research over the next two years. It would appear that the use of straight tickets on a single ballot in some states will have to be evaluated alongside the ballots for Congress which in many states now are separate from the presidential-candidate ballots.

What is most interesting about the whole study, however, is the question it provokes as to whether all the hullabaloo raised and money spent during presidential campaigns is worth while. The Michigan report says:

"Most voters appear to have made up their minds early. After the election, 68 per cent of those who had voted said that they had known how they were going to vote as soon as the nominations were held or even before. Most of them did not even give the other candidate serious consideration."

This corroborates statements often made in these dispatches that what is said and done in the period of three and a half years before a national campaign is more influential than what is said or done during the 90 days of a campaign. To reach the undecided vote and hold one's own party in line, the arguments and debate of a campaign are necessary but usually the outcome confirms a previous decision by the voters rather than any success in converting those who have already decided.

The Michigan study also would tend to confirm the theory that it is the previous reputation of the major party itself rather than the respectability or stature of the candidate which counts, especially when he is relatively unknown when nominated.

The Michigan study also puts the "undecided" or "uncommitted" vote in proper perspective. It says:

"Some voters, approximately 10 per cent, wavered from one candidate to the other down to the last week or two of the campaign. These procrastinators finally split their votes in about the same ratio as did all the other voters. This was in marked contrast to the 1948 campaign when, according to an earlier research center study, a late shift of undecided voters to the Democratic column played an important part in helping elect President Truman."

The mistake made by most of the 1948 pollsters was to assume the "uncommitted" vote would split in the same ratio as the other voters. This did happen, of course, in 1952. But it raises the question now whether the "decided" vote also may have been wrongly polled in 1948, because if it had been recorded in a ratio substantially in favor of Truman, the "undecided" vote might well have been found to be the same as the "decided" vote.

Analysis of these studies will tend to show the importance of the "decided" rather than the "undecided" vote in political campaigns. This should encourage both Republican and Democratic leaders to mind what they are doing and saying now, instead of depending on campaign oratory to extoll or to attack the record, as the case may be.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Through Alfred Kohlberg, the national chairman of the American Jewish League Against Communism, I have just amplified my background knowledge of Drew Pearson's systematic resort to the courts to silence persons who have undertaken the difficult and unpleasant task of exposing his lies and fakes and his closeness to the Communists. Mr. Kohlberg has been a front-line fighter against Communists for years. He has suffered the most painful abuse for his courage and integrity.

By coincidence, I learned that Alfred Kohlberg had had a serious conversation with Bartley Crum, a pro-Communist lawyer who has been representing Pearson against me in a lawsuit for the conventional million dollars. Pearson, through Crum, charged that I libeled him in calling him a lying blackguard in one specific instance in his long career of wicked mendacity. That was the time when Pearson broadcast the false and vicious charge that James Forrestal had fled in a cowardly manner leaving his wife helpless in the hands of armed brigands who robbed her of her jewels.

If I had needed more assurance of Pearson's inclination toward the counsel and society of Reds, Crum's appearance as Pearson's lawyer would have provided that assurance.

As I related a few days ago, Crum recently came around to my lawyers in New York to admit that his Pearson case was hopeless and to advise my attorneys that he had Pearson's permission to abandon the action. They told him that would be all right with us and he was going to come around with the proper papers, signed by Pearson, but with the understanding that I would not relent in my professional duty as a journalist to expose this lying scoundrel and otherwise render him harmless to decent men and women. Crum stalled for several weeks and his latest word was that if Pearson did not uphold him in this course of action he would quit him.

I am not concerned as to whether Pearson quits the suit or Crum quits Pearson. I believe I might better carry out my determination to destroy Pearson's power for evil by putting him on the stand in a public trial with appropriate publicity and making him admit his lies, one by one. I would thus shove that proof at newspaper publishers who have continued to print his ill-written lies long after they were fully aware of the character of the man, his methods, his devious, ulterior motives, and his stuff.

Mr. Kohlberg informs me now that Crum called on him at least two years ago. Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, another zealous and long-suffering anti-Communist, was present at this meeting. Mr. Kohlberg says Crum told him and Rabbi Schultz that he was very friendly toward the Jewish people and wanted to offer his services to forward the work of the American Jewish League Against Communism.

Mr. Kohlberg says that in a conversation lasting about two hours, Crum repeatedly said approximately this: "Nothing you can say about me (regarding Crum's traffic with Communists) is bad enough. I could say much worse. You don't know the half of it."

Mr. Kohlberg said Crum described a conference which he held with the "Hollywood Ten" Communists, all of whom were his clients and all of whom went to prison. Kohlberg says Crum told him that Lee Pressman, the old Harvard hot dog and protege of Felix Frankfurter, horned into this conference between counsel and clients and exhorted the ten Reds to stand on the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer whether they were or had been Communists. Mr. Kohlberg said Crum told him and Rabbi Schultz that Pressman dominated the conference although Pressman had no status except, it has since become known, that Pressman was a member of the Communist party. Pressman admitted this under oath.

Crum told Kohlberg that he was the one who induced Wendell Willkie to appear as counsel for a notorious Communist in an appeal to the Supreme Court, an appeal which Willkie won, by the way. He said he had been head of the California Willkie clubs in 1940. Later Crum, with Joe Barnes, of the New York Herald Tribune took over the remains of Mar

Secretary of State Dulles' conversations with French Premier Rene Mayer served to clear away some of the fog that lately has surrounded the status of the European unity movement.

At the same time, these Paris meetings illustrated sharply the value of face-to-face discussions in promoting the close understanding so vital to delicate issues.

On this occasion, French irritation over what was regarded as a shockingly blunt speech by Dulles in the United States largely vanished when Mayer and others found him sympathetic and wholly comprehending of French problems.

By the same token, Dulles learned that, though Mayer intends to seek changes in the European army treaty—current symbol of the unity effort—he nevertheless plans to push the modified program toward parliamentary ratification with all reasonable speed. This seemed to answer the secretary's chief worry as voiced in his American speech.

In other words, the unity movement may not be quite as thoroughly stalled as Dulles' blunt language suggested. And if this is so, it is good news for all the free world. Italy already has given its assurances of support, and Dulles expects similar encouragement from Chancellor Adenauer in West Germany.

The French now understand better that it is not American desire to dictate the terms and form European unity must follow, that it is our wish simply to lend the fullest encouragement and support to this program.

They undoubtedly grasp, too, that one of the things Dulles said so outspokenly in his maiden U. S. speech represents a reality the French cannot ignore: the growing reluctance of the American people, through their Congress, to go on extending financial aid to Europe without unmistakable signs that unity is coming closer. For unity is viewed here as one of the basic factors in the building of a genuinely self-reliant Europe.

As result of the Dulles visit, America for its part may realize that European leaders, despite slowdowns and digressions, manage to keep the unity objective steadily in view.

We possibly understand a little more that European leadership sometimes gets too far ahead of public opinion and must wait for it to catch up. Some of this difficulty, however, seems the fault of European statesmen—especially the French—who fear to take the unity issue openly and fully to the people.

Where we really need to exercise greater patience is in appreciating that Europe is trying to unite in a few short years a group of proud nations, each with its separate language and tradition, its nationalist flavor, and the centuries-old habit of living to itself as much as possible.

Even the urgent compulsions of the Communist menace cannot quickly demolish the stout national walls erected and maintained so painfully over so long a span.

POSITIVE ACTION

The new administration is moving under the impetus of the fresh start voters gave it on election day. Despite twenty years of habits, traditions and commitments inherited from previous administrations President Eisenhower has acted with energy and enthusiasm.

President Eisenhower spent the greater part of his life as a soldier. One of the tenets of military strategy is "when in doubt, attack." Faced with a number of complex situations to which there seems no quick or easy answer Eisenhower is determined to move. There is danger in this method but at least it is a positive approach and there can be no hope of settlement of our difficulties with a negative attitude.

We used to wonder what became of the ice man in the winter. Now we know. He gets a job in a factory making iceless refrigerators.

'These Days'

A PROFESSOR SPEAKS

Professor Edward A. Shils of the University of Chicago has an explanation for the unwillingness of the State Department to give visas to some foreign scientists to come to this country because they have bad reputations in their own countries. He said, according to "The Saturday Evening Post":

"The excessive preoccupation with the dangers of revolutionary subversion, arising from a compound of xenophobia, distrust of the educated and of intellectual activity, and the animosity of the professional politician against the usually better educated civil servants—all aggravated by the system of the separation of powers which creates a nearly permanent war between legislative and executive branches of our Federal Government—brings us to our present position."

Now that is an amazing sentence which needs commentary almost word for word. Take the clause "excessive preoccupation with the dangers of revolutionary subversion"—what can that mean? If revolutionary subversion exists, how can a government be excessively preoccupied with it, unless that government cares nothing for its people, its culture and civilization?

Is it not a normal function of government to protect its country? Is not revolution as perilous as war?

Now we come to xenophobia. This is a fancy word for dislike of the stranger. How can that be said when the fact is that this country, even today, has one of the most liberal immigration policies of any country on earth, admitting persons from all continents, in spite of restrictions, more freely than most other countries? Compare, for instance, our immigration laws with those of Soviet Russia!

So, we come to a "distrust of the educated and of intellectual activity." What are the facts? This country supports more schools, more universities, more research laboratories, more PH. D.'s per capita than most countries.

It is unrealistic to state that Americans distrust the educated; on the contrary, it is a habit in this country to assume that if a man achieves high status in one intellectual discipline, he knows everything. For instance, while Professor Albert Einstein is a great physicist and an authority on Mozart, it is doubtful that he can read and understand a law passed by Congress on the subject of immigration. Similarly, while James B. Conant of Harvard is an outstanding chemist, does that make him a diplomat? Perhaps he is; but the evidence on the subject is still to be established.

The American people have an extraordinary regard for the man of learning. Unfortunately, some men of learning do not take that respect with the humility of spirit and sense of deep responsibility which such faith in them should evoke. They too often believe the good things that are said about them.

Now comes the phrase, "the animosity of the professional politician against the usually better educated civil servants"—a statement which is a strange departure from factual data and therefore lacking in intellectual discipline. Most of the members of Congress are university graduates and lawyers. If they are not adequately educated, it must be the fault of the universities which they attended. Those universities are, in the main, the same ones from which come the civil servants and other schooled men and women. The most representative body of our professional politicians is in Congress, the Cabinet, and in the courts.

I choose the Senate of the 82nd Congress as an example: The Senate consists of 96 members; 83 reported attendance at and graduation from one or more universities, some with more than one degree. Of those who do not report their university records, a few are lawyers and therefore are likely to have attended colleges. This record will show favorably with most categories of civil servants.

While I do not believe that college attendance should be a qualification for election to Congress, it does prove that Professor Shils has not taken the trouble to get at the facts, which he could have done by the same method as I did, namely, count noses in the "Congressional Directory." Maybe the professor never heard of this reference book.

The learned profesor also objects to the separation of powers, provided by our Constitution, to safeguard our people from tyranny. Maybe, he prefers tyranny; if not, why object to this fundamental doctrine of American political life? What would Professor Shils substitute for it?

I looked in several usual reference books to discover who Professor Shils is. There was no information.

That Body of Yours

REST TUBERCULOSIS LUNG

I have written before of making a social visit to a young man in a tuberculosis sanitarium and while there; a heavyweight boxer was assigned to the next bed. As he greeted me, he said, "Well here I am for the next two years if I want to save my life. They tell me I must rest in bed to give my bad lung a complete rest so it will heal!"

It so happens that this was the regulation method of resting a diseased lung at that time, but, fortunately, there are now several ways of resting the affected lung which greatly shortens the stay in hospital or sanitarium.

One of these first methods was pneumothorax, treatment in which air is pumped into the cavity containing the lung. This air braces the lung, not allowing it to move and so giving it a chance to heal. This method is still used in many cases and also surgical methods—cutting ribs and cutting nerve supply—both methods preventing movement of the affected lung. In some cases a whole lobe of the affected lung is removed by surgery.

However, some years ago what is called pneumoperitoneum (peritoneum is lining of abdomen), filling the abdomen with air which presses up against the floor of the lungs and prevents movement or much movement, came into use. Naturally this pneumoperitoneum treatment is welcomed by patient and physician and we can understand why when we study the results obtained by filling and refilling abdomen with air.

In Diseases of the Chest, Chicago, Drs. F. Crenshaw and J. H. Gross state that they first used pneumoperitoneum in 1937 and for the first two years it was used only in advanced cases where both lungs were affected, sputum positive, and cavities in both lungs. These cases were considered hopeless. Drs. Crenshaw and Gross were so pleased with the results even in these serious or hopeless cases that they started, in 1941, using pneumoperitoneum in more hopeful cases and today it is the preferred method of collapsing and so resting a tuberculosis lung in both their institutions.

"For the past two years there have been ten times as many pneumoperitoneum treatments as pneumothorax treatments." With an average number of 1,500 patients, these physicians give an average of 25,000 fillings a year. They have used pneumoperitoneum in conjection with phrenemphraxis (crushing nerve supplying lungs) on the most affected side in most of 560 men and women with slight, medium or advanced pulmonary tuberculosis. Of these, 246 have been successfully treated and most of them discontinued pneumoperitoneum in 2 to 10 years.

When we compare pneumoperitoneum with the months and years of treatment of bed rest, it means much to patients and families of patients when this method can be used.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Complete blockade of the Communist China coast and turning loose the forces of Chiang Kai-shek against the China mainland raise certain practical problems for the people who would have to carry out such measures.

This may be one of the more important reasons why Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was able to tell the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the Eisenhower administration had no plans for such a blockade now.

As psychological warfare or cold war pressure against the Communists, the talk of more positive action is tops. It throws the Reds off balance and puts them on the defensive.

The current impression that these are brand new ideas, however, is not absolutely accurate. Ever since President Eisenhower returned from Korea in December, the additional measures that might be taken to shorten the Korean war have been openly talked about.

The apparent intent has been to let the American people and the leaders and people of other United Nations think these matters through and get used to the ideas they present. To be effective any new actions in the Pacific must have support of the people at home, for increased casualties may be involved in the beginning.

In addition to withdrawal of the U. S. Seventh Fleet from the straits of Formosa and imposition of a blockade against Red China, these other possible actions have been given consideration:

Equipping of 10 or more new South Korean divisions.

Sending three or more U. S. divisions to the Orient.

More American aid for Indo-China, to end that war.

Bombing of Manchurian bases north of the Yalu river.

Would Be Calculated Risk

It has been emphasized that a year or more might be required to complete all these plans. Withdrawal of the Seventh Fleet may therefore be considered only a first step.

Blockade of the China coast might be a natural second step. In carrying this out, however, certain precautions might have to be considered.

A blockade by one country against the commerce of another is an act war. It can be argued—as Senator Taft argues—that the U. S. is already at war with Red China, and they started it.

A blockade of Red China by the U. S. would be a calculated risk. The showdown on the blockade would come when the U. S. Navy stopped a Russian freighter bound from, say Vladivostok to Port Arthur.

It is possible that nothing might come of it. The Russians have shot down several U. S. and Swedish patrol planes without starting any war.

There is a way to avoid this risk by having the United Nations declare the blockade. This would be going only one step beyond action already taken by the UN.

In February, 1951, the UN General Assembly declared Communist China an aggressor in Korea. An Additional Measures Committee of representatives from 14 nations was named to recommend appropriate action.

In May, 1951, this committe recommended a "strategic embargo" against Red China. It called up all nations to refrain from sending arms and military supplies to the aggressors. The U. S. had previously declared a total embargo on shipments to the Communist countries, but other nations did no go that far.

Questions Must Be Weighed

The UN Additional Measures Committee is still in existence, though it has not met for some time. A logical step when the UN General Assembly reconvenes at the end of February would be a proposal for a complete blockade of the China coast.

Whether the General Assembly would approve such a blockade is anybody's guess. If it did, it would provide the backing of international law for an embargo that would not be an act of war. If it didn't, then the U. S. would have to decide whether to act alone.

There are certain practical strategic questions that have to be considered before putting a blockade into effect.

The U. S. Navy does not now have enough strength in the Pacific to impose a tight blockade on the entire 2000-mile China coast. If all bays and indentations are included, the coastline is 4000 miles. Stopping all coastwise smugglers in junks might be difficult, but it could be done.

If Red China decided to retaliate by an attack on Hong Kong, provision would have to be made to feed and defend that British island. As a listening post and as a base for any future actions on the mainland of China, retention of Hong Kong is considered important.

In view of the possibility of a blockade, any order withdrawing the U. S. Seventh Fleet from the straits of Formosa would become somewhat meaningless. For a blockade would send the fleet back in greater strength.

University's Survey Is Example of Real Public Service Opinion Polls Can Give

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 16 — There's much food for thought in the results of a post-election survey made by the survey research center of the University of Michigan just announced. It could influence the thinking and the course of action of both parties in Congress between now and the next elections.

The study—which was scientifically conducted, with interviews among voters of all kinds, both before and after the election—is an example of the real service that public-opinion polls can render when they confine themselves to research on the behavior of the electorate rather than to predictions of the outcome of elections.

The University of Michigan's fact-finders reveal that General Eisenhower won by "swinging a substantial number of Democrats into the Republican column while holding virtually all of the traditional Republican voters."

It was found, too, that "one out of five votes came from Democrats who crossed party lines" and that "independent voters, those with no customary party preference, also went for Eisenhower by a two-to-one margin."

Thus, there is support for both of the views held by Republican theorists before the election. Senator Taft always argued that the Republicans could win by holding their own vote and converting Democrats who thought the same way. Others insisted that the "Independent" voters who had no particular party ties constituted the balance of power.

The Michigan research report says that the Eisenhower victory wasn't brought about "by the defection of any particular group from the Democratic ranks, but by a general shift toward the Republican candidate in almost all classes of voters."

Labor leaders will note that the Michigan interviewers discovered that, while "labor-union members and blue-collar workers stayed in the Democratic column in 1952, Stevenson's lead among them was less than that piled up by President Truman in 1948." But white-collar workers, who had split evenly in 1948, gave Eisenhower a five-to-three majority in 1952, and farmers "swung heavily into the Republican column."

The failure of more votes to go to the Republican congressional nominees from those who balloted in favor of Mr. Eisenhower is noted, but the reasons are not yet available, as there will be further reports from this research over the next two years. It would appear that the use of straight tickets on a single ballot in some states will have to be evaluated alongside the ballots for Congress which in many states now are separate from the presidential-candidate ballots.

What is most interesting about the whole study, however, is the question it provokes as to whether all the hullabaloo raised and money spent during presidential campaigns is worth while. The Michigan report says:

"Most voters appear to have made up their minds early. After the election, 68 per cent of those who had voted said that they had known how they were going to vote as soon as the nominations were held or even before. Most of them did not even give the other candidate serious consideration."

This corroborates statements often made in these dispatches that what is said and done in the period of three and a half years before a national campaign is more influential than what is said or done during the 90 days of a campaign. To reach the undecided vote and hold one's own party in line, the arguments and debate of a campaign are necessary but usually the outcome confirms a previous decision by the voters rather than any success in converting those who have already decided.

The Michigan study also would tend to confirm the theory that it is the previous reputation of the major party itself rather than the respectability or stature of the candidate which counts, especially when he is relatively unknown when nominated.

The Michigan study also puts the "undecided" or "uncommitted" vote in proper perspective. It says:

"Some voters, approximately 10 per cent, wavered from one candidate to the other down to the last week or two of the campaign. These procrastinators finally split their votes in about the same ratio as did all the other voters. This was in marked contrast to the 1948 campaign when, according to an earlier research center study, a late shift of undecided voters to the Democratic column played an important part in helping elect President Truman."

The mistake made by most of the 1948 pollsters was to assume the "uncommitted" vote would split in the same ratio as the other voters. This did happen, of course, in 1952. But it raises the question now whether the "decided" vote also may have been wrongly polled in 1948, because if it had been recorded in a ratio substantially in favor of Truman, the "undecided" vote might well have been found to be the same as the "decided" vote.

Analysis of these studies will tend to show the importance of the "decided" rather than the "undecided" vote in political campaigns. This should encourage both Republican and Democratic leaders to mind what they are doing and saying now, instead of depending on campaign oratory to extoll or to attack the record, as the case may be.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Through Alfred Kohlberg, the national chairman of the American Jewish League Against Communism, I have just amplified my background knowledge of Drew Pearson's systematic resort to the courts to silence persons who have undertaken the difficult and unpleasant task of exposing his lies and fakes and his closeness to the Communists. Mr. Kohlberg has been a front-line fighter against Communists for years. He has suffered the most painful abuse for his courage and integrity.

By coincidence, I learned that Alfred Kohlberg had had a serious conversation with Bartley Crum, a pro-Communist lawyer who has been representing Pearson against me in a lawsuit for the conventional million dollars. Pearson, through Crum, charged that I libeled him in calling him a lying blackguard in one specific instance in his long career of wicked mendacity. That was the time when Pearson broadcast the false and vicious charge that James Forrestal had fled in a cowardly manner leaving his wife helpless in the hands of armed brigands who robbed her of her jewels.

If I had needed more assurance of Pearson's inclination toward the counsel and society of Reds, Crum's appearance as Pearson's lawyer would have provided that assurance.

As I related a few days ago, Crum recently came around to my lawyers in New York to admit that his Pearson case was hopeless and to advise my attorneys that he had Pearson's permission to abandon the action. They told him that would be all right with us and he was going to come around with the proper papers, signed by Pearson, but with the understanding that I would not relent in my professional duty as a journalist to expose this lying scoundrel and otherwise render him harmless to decent men and women. Crum stalled for several weeks and his latest word was that if Pearson did not uphold him in this course of action he would quit him.

I am not concerned as to whether Pearson quits the suit or Crum quits Pearson. I believe I might better carry out my determination to destroy Pearson's power for evil by putting him on the stand in a public trial with appropriate publicity and making him admit his lies, one by one. I would thus shove that proof at newspaper publishers who have continued to print his ill-written lies long after they were fully aware of the character of the man, his methods, his devious, ulterior motives, and his stuff.

Mr. Kohlberg informs me now that Crum called on him at least two years ago. Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, another zealous and long-suffering anti-Communist, was present at this meeting. Mr. Kohlberg says Crum told him and Rabbi Schultz that he was very friendly toward the Jewish people and wanted to offer his services to forward the work of the American Jewish League Against Communism.

Mr. Kohlberg says that in a conversation lasting about two hours, Crum repeatedly said approximately this: "Nothing you can say about me (regarding Crum's traffic with Communists) is bad enough. I could say much worse. You don't know the half of it."

Mr. Kohlberg said Crum described a conference which he held with the "Hollywood Ten" Communists, all of whom were his clients and all of whom went to prison. Kohlberg says Crum told him that Lee Pressman, the old Harvard hot dog and protege of Felix Frankfurter, horned into this conference between counsel and clients and exhorted the ten Reds to stand on the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer whether they were or had been Communists. Mr. Kohlberg said Crum told him and Rabbi Schultz that Pressman dominated the conference although Pressman had no status except, it has since become known, that Pressman was a member of the Communist party. Pressman admitted this under oath.

Crum told Kohlberg that he was the one who induced Wendell Willkie to appear as counsel for a notorious Communist in an appeal to the Supreme Court, an appeal which Willkie won, by the way. He said he had been head of the California Willkie clubs in 1940. Later Crum, with Joe Barnes, of the New York Herald Tribune took over the remains of Mar yet how very much the same!

These two contrasting photos illustrate the growth of one Poughkeepsie company in the past sixty years. But, different as these two groups may seem on the surface, older workers at the Sedgwick Machine Works will tell you that there has been no change in the spirit that prevailed at the start.

"Lance" Ackert, who appears in both of these pictures, remembers well Alonzo Sedgwick, one of the founders, who posed with him in the older photo. He remembers, too, how Alonzo Sedgwick used to shuck his coat and pitch in on difficult jobs.

Sedgwick men will tell you that they feel just as close to management today as their older coworkers did in the early days of the business. Even though Sedgwick products are now known all over the world, they are still made by local men under local management. The old traditions live on.

Today, the men at Sedgwick, like their predecessors of sixty years ago, are all-around craftsmen who take pride in their work. Most of them learn a number of crafts and a variety of skills with different tools. They enjoy freedom from monotony because they are not tied down to one continuous operation. And they like the feeling of permanence that comes with knowing how to do many jobs.

More than half of Sedgwick's workers have been steadily on the Sedgwick payroll for over five years. Almost one-third have a decade of service behind them and three Sedgwick men have been with the company for half a century.

yet how very much the same!

These two contrasting photos illustrate the growth of one Poughkeepsie company in the past sixty years. But, different as these two groups may seem on the surface, older workers at the Sedgwick Machine Works will tell you that there has been no change in the spirit that prevailed at the start.

"Lance" Ackert, who appears in both of these pictures, remembers well Alonzo Sedgwick, one of the founders, who posed with him in the older photo. He remembers, too, how Alonzo Sedgwick used to shuck his coat and pitch in on difficult jobs.

Sedgwick men will tell you that they feel just as close to management today as their older coworkers did in the early days of the business. Even though Sedgwick products are now known all over the world, they are still made by local men under local management. The old traditions live on.

Today, the men at Sedgwick, like their predecessors of sixty years ago, are all-around craftsmen who take pride in their work. Most of them learn a number of crafts and a variety of skills with different tools. They enjoy freedom from monotony because they are not tied down to one continuous operation. And they like the feeling of permanence that comes with knowing how to do many jobs.

More than half of Sedgwick's workers have been steadily on the Sedgwick payroll for over five years. Almost one-third have a decade of service behind them and three Sedgwick men have been with the company for half a century.

Such conditions make for satisfaction and satisfactory products.

72 Patients Fight With Pillows in Narcotics Ward

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—There was a lot of fuss—but no feathers—when 72 male patients staged a pillow fight in a narcotics ward of a city hospital last night.

The horseplay developed from rivalry between two wings of the ward at Riverside Hospital on an island in the East river.

First word from the island was that the situation was "out of control."

Scores of marine and emergency squad police rushed to the island prepared for a riot. They carried machine guns, riot guns, tear gas, respirators and large searchlights.

Quiet was soon restored. Hospitals Commissioner Marcus D. Kogel escorted newsmen through the ward to prove it. They found no evidence of a pillow fight.

The hospital uses foam rubber pillows, Kogel explained.

Air Force-Business Clinic Is Planned, Kaplan Announces

An Air Force-Business clinic on How to Do Business With the Air Force will be held February 19 at 8 p. m. in the Kreiger Public School auditorium, 265 Hooker avenue, Poughkeepsie, according to announcement made today by Adrian Kaplan, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Sponsors of the clinic are the Eastern Air Procurement District of the Air Force and the Poughkeepsie and Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

"This clinic will serve a two-fold purpose," Kaplan said. "It will acquaint Mid-Hudson area businessmen with the opportunities to do business with the air force and supply information that will be useful to those already working on prime or subcontracts. There are opportunities for both small and large firms. The vast majority of the approximately one million items stocked by the air force can be manufactured by firms not related to the aircraft industry, but by companies which normally supply civilian goods."

Representatives of the Eastern Air Procurement District will be present to discuss current and future air force requirements and to explain procurement procedures. The air force motion picture Small Business and the Air Force will be shown. There will be a question and answer period during which those attending the clinic will have the opportunity to obtain first-hand information and get answers to specific questions.

"This meeting has been arranged," Kaplan explained, "to give businessmen direct access to information which will be helpful to them in obtaining and handling air force work. We hope this clinic will be an aid in increasing the volume of this work in the Kingston area and that it will assist the air force in expanding its sources of supply. We urge owners, executives, managers and supervisors of both small and large firms to attend."

A Wonderful City

35 Kenilworth road,
Yonkers, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing this letter to you to express my appreciation to the wonderful people of Kingston. When I was injured in an automobile accident in September and was confined to the Kingston Hospital I was a stranger to your city and a great distance from my home and family. Within a few weeks I made friends whom I shall never forget for their kindness and thoughtfulness. They cared for me as though I was a part of their family and made my 4½ month stay very pleasant.

I may sound disloyal to my home town, but I am sure I would never find the service and the friendly atmosphere that I found in the hospital. The expert care I received from Dr. Glenn Van Gaasbeek and Dr. Bruce Van Gaasbeek is certainly appreciated by my family and I. The nurses and nurses aides made my stay there as pleasant as possible and showed great patience during my trying moments.

I would especially like to thank Father Farrelly of St. Mary's Church and the sisters and students of the Mother Cabrini School in Esopus, and also the Rev. and Mrs. Swift and their prayer group for their spiritual aid. I would also like to thank Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk and the Ulster County Women's Republican Club for their floral bouquets, cards and gifts. I certainly appreciated Station WKNY for remembering me on their disc jockey shows.

Now that I am home I feel very lonely for all my friends in Kingston and I hope this letter will express my sincere appreciation to a wonderful city. Thank you all again.

Field Recruiters, Specialists, Are Needed by Army

Administrative specialists and field recruiters are urgently needed by the U. S. Army in Albany and sub-stations, it was announced today by M/Sgt. Stoy L. Johnson, Kingston army recruiter.

He explained that army personnel had been drastically reduced due to rotations and overseas shipments. "The need is so great that army veterans, if they so desire, may be assigned directly into recruiting if they reenlist within 90 days after their discharge."

He said that men who apply must pass a "salesman's adaptability test," pointing out that men with a selling or related civilian or service background stood a better chance for recruiting assignments, "although these qualifications are not absolutely necessary."

Johnson called attention to the comment, often heard, "Golly but that army recruiter is a lucky fellow. Stationed right in his home town!" The local recruiter said the phrase "will be heard more often in Albany and nearby towns."

He urged all interested persons to contact the nearest Army and Air Force Recruiting Station of the Albany Recruiting and Induction Main Station, 43-45 Columbia street, Albany, for more detailed information.

Air Force-Business Clinic Is Planned, Kaplan Announces

An Air Force-Business clinic on How to Do Business With the Air Force will be held February 19 at 8 p. m. in the Kreiger Public School auditorium, 265 Hooker avenue, Poughkeepsie, according to announcement made today by Adrian Kaplan, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. Sponsors of the clinic are the Eastern Air Procurement District of the Air Force and the Poughkeepsie and Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

"This clinic will serve a two-fold purpose," Kaplan said. "It will acquaint Mid-Hudson area businessmen with the opportunities to do business with the air force and supply information that will be useful to those already working on prime or subcontracts. There are opportunities for both small and large firms. The vast majority of the approximately one million items stocked by the air force can be manufactured by firms not related to the aircraft industry, but by companies which normally supply civilian goods."

Representatives of the Eastern Air Procurement District will be present to discuss current and future air force requirements and to explain procurement procedures. The air force motion picture Small Business and the Air Force will be shown. There will be a question and answer period during which those attending the clinic will have the opportunity to obtain first-hand information and get answers to specific questions.

"This meeting has been arranged," Kaplan explained, "to give businessmen direct access to information which will be helpful to them in obtaining and handling air force work. We hope this clinic will be an aid in increasing the volume of this work in the Kingston area and that it will assist the air force in expanding its sources of supply. We urge owners, executives, managers and supervisors of both small and large firms to attend."

A Wonderful City

35 Kenilworth road,
Yonkers, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing this letter to you to express my appreciation to the wonderful people of Kingston. When I was injured in an automobile accident in September and was confined to the Kingston Hospital I was a stranger to your city and a great distance from my home and family. Within a few weeks I made friends whom I shall never forget for their kindness and thoughtfulness. They cared for me as though I was a part of their family and made my 4½ month stay very pleasant.

I may sound disloyal to my home town, but I am sure I would never find the service and the friendly atmosphere that I found in the hospital. The expert care I received from Dr. Glenn Van Gaasbeek and Dr. Bruce Van Gaasbeek is certainly appreciated by my family and I. The nurses and nurses aides made my stay there as pleasant as possible and showed great patience during my trying moments.

I would especially like to thank Father Farrelly of St. Mary's Church and the sisters and students of the Mother Cabrini School in Esopus, and also the Rev. and Mrs. Swift and their prayer group for their spiritual aid. I would also like to thank Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk and the Ulster County Women's Republican Club for their floral bouquets, cards and gifts. I certainly appreciated Station WKNY for remembering me on their disc jockey shows.

Now that I am home I feel very lonely for all my friends in Kingston and I hope this letter will express my sincere appreciation to a wonderful city. Thank you all again.

Field Recruiters, Specialists, Are Needed by Army

Administrative specialists and field recruiters are urgently needed by the U. S. Army in Albany and sub-stations, it was announced today by M/Sgt. Stoy L. Johnson, Kingston army recruiter.

He explained that army personnel had been drastically reduced due to rotations and overseas shipments. "The need is so great that army veterans, if they so desire, may be assigned directly into recruiting if they reenlist within 90 days after their discharge."

He said that men who apply must pass a "salesman's adaptability test," pointing out that men with a selling or related civilian or service background stood a better chance for recruiting assignments, "although these qualifications are not absolutely necessary."

Johnson called attention to the comment, often heard, "Golly but that army recruiter is a lucky fellow. Stationed right in his home town!" The local recruiter said the phrase "will be heard more often in Albany and nearby towns."

He urged all interested persons to contact the nearest Army and Air Force Recruiting Station of the Albany Recruiting and Induction Main Station, 43-45 Columbia street, Albany, for more detailed information.

HOSPITALITY IN FRIEND'S HOUSE

The question of showing hospitality in a friend's house is the subject of this letter: "My husband and I have been very close friends of a man and his wife for many years. His wife passed away about six months ago. Since her passing, we stop in to see him at least once a week. One evening, while we were visiting him, another couple came in. We were having a drink when they arrived, and after we sat talking awhile I asked them if they would like a drink as I think the husband had overlooked the fact that they didn't have any. My husband says I was very much out of order to offer anything in anyone else's house. As there was no hostess and we are a very informal group, I see no harm in what I did. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?"

I'm sorry, but I do think it would have been better to have reminded the host that he had forgotten to offer them anything.

I would like to know if it is my place to send out the wedding announcements to our relatives and friends here in the East, or do I send a list to the bride-to-be's mother? The bride and her parents are strangers to me.

Answer: It is the bride's parents place to send the announcements. Therefore, you send your list of names to her mother.

Announcing New Address

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just moved into our new house. Many of our friends do not know our present address. Will you please tell me the simplest and best way of notifying them of this?

Answer: Your double visiting card with your new address engraved on it and a written message such as, "We hope you will come to see us soon," would be the best way.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Wittenberg Woman Already Working For Library Fair

Woodstock, Feb. 16—It has become an established habit for many Woodstock Library Fair workers to set aside a corner during the winter months where articles for the July fair may accumulate. Few members of the fair committees, however, start actively to work, giving a large amount of time making articles until about May or June, when the fair frenzy really begins. Consequently, a new record for early starting has probably been set by Miss Therese Kessel of Wittenberg who was last year's chairman of the well-stocked apron table.

Miss Kessel, whose expert needlework is only one of her many accomplishments, has already completed over a dozen highly original and colorful aprons for next summer's fair. In addition she has received a brilliant collection of cotton materials from several members of her committee who spend the winters in New York.

"I already have on hand," she said, rustling through the gay prints, handsome plaids and jewel-toned plain materials, "enough pieces for at least 150 aprons." Watching Miss Kessel set to work it was easy to determine that a good many of these aprons will be made by Miss Kessel herself. This year, too, she hopes to include a large selection of children's aprons, as well as pinafores and the novel wrap-around apron dresses which were so popular last year.

A lady who firmly believes that "it isn't important what you expect others to do for you, but what you can do for others," Miss Kessel is noted in this village and elsewhere for her ability to spread her enjoyment of making things far and wide.

Is Versatile Woman

Retired several years ago as a teacher of fine arts at the George Washington High School in New York, she created marionette shows, paints, is an active member of the weaving group at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, and is famed here for her culinary exploits. While taking a course in marionette making at Columbia Teachers College a number of years ago she discovered that several young members of the class had never been to an opera or a ballet. She told them that it would cost them something, but that it would be worth it, and made arrangements for the group to attend opera and ballet performances. It resulted in the group putting on a marionette show of Petrouchka as well as a ballet show. Miss Kessel, who was also a good figure skater, designed a pair of skating puppets and put them through the authentic steps, figures, waltzes and ballet ice skating.

"I've kept all my marionettes," she said, "in my attic here. Sometime I'll have to get them out and we'll put on a show."

A resident of Wittenberg since 1941 when she began coming here during the summers before her retirement, she recollects that her decision finally to retire was complicated by a load of cauliflower. On a summer afternoon while waiting for the bus on the Bearsville Road to take her home, she was vaguely conscious of a dark object coming toward her. It was a large truck loaded with crates of cauliflower she learned later, out of control and careening down the road. The truck itself missed her as she stepped back, but the vehicle tipped over dumping 175 crates on her. Dug out of the vegetables, she was bleeding but not seriously injured. After that she made her decision to retire from teaching, but otherwise her life since has been more than active.

Has Many Interests

"I'm really a jack of all trades," she says of herself, "but have great difficulty in concentrating on any one thing."

Her friends and co-workers in the Woodstock unit of the Home Bureau, where she handled the cooking project for one year, take an opposite view. "Therese," says one former president, "is never too busy to help, no matter what the job is to be done. Did you know she speaks and writes beautifully German and when an old gentleman in the village who spoke little English, was ill she wrote many beautifully phrased cards to him which made all the difference in the world to him."

The same past president with another friend from the Home Bureau recently went to see Miss Kessel for instructions on cutting out a certain type of apron. From her numerous boxes of materials Miss Kessel asked the ladies to choose their pieces. Without benefit of pattern or measure she cut, as they described it—"zip, zip, zip!" There was an apron. "Now," she said, turning to the other guest, "I'll cut you one."

Relatives as well as friends have a habit of depending upon her for garments large and small. The mother of an eight-year-old in the family became entranced with a Betsy McCall doll, which she purchased some time before Christmas with the dolls wardrobe patterns provided. The package arrived with doll and patterns at Miss Kessel's home, with no explanatory letter, but she knew just what was needed. For Christmas Betsy McCall arrived in Santa's pack complete with a wardrobe of 23 garments. They included two sets of delicately fashioned underwear, a square dance dress, overalls, peignoir, pajamas, a complete Scotch outfit, sun suits and hats and caps to match.

Treats to Pop-overs

While passing a plate of plump light pop-overs around at her Wittenberg home the other afternoon, she recalled that the recipe was one she learned and taught for one of the Home Bureau cooking programs. "I've never found one to equal it," she observed and her guests agreed.

"Some time ago," she added, "I decided I had to limit myself a little in my activities," a statement which aroused a bit of wonder in her guests who scanned her large living room dominated by a huge stone fireplace. In one corner was a hooked rug screen in progress. By another wall was a painting, in progress on an easel the inspiration for which was found in last year's trip to Florida. On the sofa before the fireplace was a roll of beautifully woven material she had taken from the loom at the Guild of Craftsmen the night before. On the table was the box of aprons already completed for the Library Fair.

Her next comment was more in keeping: "I hope my curiosity will never be still if I live to be a hundred I always want to learn something new!"

The holder of BS and MA degrees, she disclosed finally the real secret of her charm and zest for life. "The trouble is I always think of myself as a person in her twenties." As a sure indication that others think of her that way also, her house, almost the year round is filled with 20 and 30 year old guests who enjoy her companionship and depend upon her council.

Even as time goes by she admits "as the years go on you can develop a better philosophy, and have time to crystalize your ideas."

HOSPITALITY IN FRIEND'S HOUSE

The question of showing hospitality in a friend's house is the subject of this letter: "My husband and I have been very close friends of a man and his wife for many years. His wife passed away about six months ago. Since her passing, we stop in to see him at least once a week. One evening, while we were visiting him, another couple came in. We were having a drink when they arrived, and after we sat talking awhile I asked them if they would like a drink as I think the husband had overlooked the fact that they didn't have any. My husband says I was very much out of order to offer anything in anyone else's house. As there was no hostess and we are a very informal group, I see no harm in what I did. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?"

I'm sorry, but I do think it would have been better to have reminded the host that he had forgotten to offer them anything.

Announcement Is by Bride's Family

I would like to know if it is my place to send out the wedding announcements to our relatives and friends here in the East, or do I send a list to the bride-to-be's mother? The bride and her parents are strangers to me.

Answer: It is the bride's parents place to send the announcements. Therefore, you send your list of names to her mother.

Announcing New Address

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just moved into our new house. Many of our friends do not know our present address. Will you please tell me the simplest and best way of notifying them of this?

Answer: Your double visiting card with your new address engraved on it and a written message such as, "We hope you will come to see us soon," would be the best way.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Wittenberg Woman Already Working For Library Fair

Woodstock, Feb. 16—It has become an established habit for many Woodstock Library Fair workers to set aside a corner during the winter months where articles for the July fair may accumulate. Few members of the fair committees, however, start actively to work, giving a large amount of time making articles until about May or June, when the fair frenzy really begins. Consequently, a new record for early starting has probably been set by Miss Therese Kessel of Wittenberg who was last year's chairman of the well-stocked apron table.

Miss Kessel, whose expert needlework is only one of her many accomplishments, has already completed over a dozen highly original and colorful aprons for next summer's fair. In addition she has received a brilliant collection of cotton materials from several members of her committee who spend the winters in New York.

"I already have on hand," she said, rustling through the gay prints, handsome plaids and jewel-toned plain materials, "enough pieces for at least 150 aprons." Watching Miss Kessel set to work it was easy to determine that a good many of these aprons will be made by Miss Kessel herself. This year, too; she hopes to include a large selection of children's aprons, as well as pinafores and the novel wrap-around apron dresses which were so popular last year.

A lady who firmly believes that "it isn't important what you expect others to do for you, but what you can do for others," Miss Kessel is noted in this village and elsewhere for her ability to spread her enjoyment of making things far and wide.

Is Versatile Woman

Retired several years ago as a teacher of fine arts at the George Washington High School in New York, she created marionette shows, paints, is an active member of the weaving group at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, and is famed here for her culinary exploits. While taking a course in marionette making at Columbia Teachers College a number of years ago she discovered that several young members of the class had never been to an opera or a ballet. She told them that it would cost them something, but that it would be worth it, and made arrangements for the group to attend opera and ballet performances. It resulted in the group putting on a marionette show of Petrouchka as well as a ballet show. Miss Kessel, who was also a good figure skater, designed a pair of skating puppets and put them through the authentic steps, figures, waltzes and ballet ice skating.

"I've kept all my marionettes," she said, "in my attic here. Sometime I'll have to get them out and we'll put on a show."

A resident of Wittenberg since 1941 when she began coming here during the summers before her retirement, she recollects that her decision finally to retire was complicated by a load of cauliflower. On a summer afternoon while waiting for the bus on the Bearsville Road to take her home, she was vaguely conscious of a dark object coming toward her. It was a large truck loaded with crates of cauliflower she learned later, out of control and careening down the road. The truck itself missed her as she stepped back, but the vehicle tipped over dumping 175 crates on her. Dug out of the vegetables, she was bleeding but not seriously injured. After that she made her decision to retire from teaching, but otherwise her life since has been more than active.

Has Many Interests

"I'm really a jack of all trades," she says of herself, "but have great difficulty in concentrating on any one thing."

Her friends and co-workers in the Woodstock unit of the Home Bureau, where she handled the cooking project for one year, take an opposite view. "Therese," says one former president, "is never too busy to help, no matter what the job is to be done. Did you know she speaks and writes beautifully German and when an old gentleman in the village who spoke little English, was ill she wrote many beautifully phrased cards to him which made all the difference in the world to him."

The same past president with another friend from the Home Bureau recently went to see Miss Kessel for instructions on cutting out a certain type of apron. From her numerous boxes of materials Miss Kessel asked the ladies to choose their pieces. Without benefit of pattern or measure she cut, as they described it—"zip, zip, zip!" There was an apron. "Now," she said, turning to the other guest, "I'll cut you one."

Relatives as well as friends have a habit of depending upon her for garments large and small. The mother of an eight-year-old in the family became entranced with a Betsy McCall doll, which she purchased some time before Christmas with the dolls wardrobe patterns provided. The package arrived with doll and patterns at Miss Kessel's home, with no explanatory letter, but she knew just what was needed. For Christmas Betsy McCall arrived in Santa's pack complete with a wardrobe of 23 garments. They included two sets of delicately fashioned underwear, a square dance dress, overalls, peignoir, pajamas, a complete Scotch outfit, sun suits and hats and caps to match.

Treats to Pop-overs

While passing a plate of plump light pop-overs around at her Wittenberg home the other afternoon, she recalled that the recipe was one she learned and taught for one of the Home Bureau cooking programs. "I've never found one to equal it," she observed and her guests agreed.

"Some time ago," she added, "I decided I had to limit myself a little in my activities," a statement which aroused a bit of wonder in her guests who scanned her large living room dominated by a huge stone fireplace. In one corner was a hooked rug screen in progress. By another wall was a painting, in progress on an easel the inspiration for which was found in last year's trip to Florida. On the sofa before the fireplace was a roll of beautifully woven material she had taken from the loom at the Guild of Craftsmen the night before. On the table was the box of aprons already completed for the Library Fair.

Her next comment was more in keeping: "I hope my curiosity will never be still if I live to be a hundred I always want to learn something new!"

The holder of BS and MA degrees, she disclosed finally the real secret of her charm and zest for life. "The trouble is I always think of myself as a person in her twenties." As a sure indication that others think of her that way also, her house, almost the year round is filled with 20 and 30 year old guests who enjoy her companionship and depend upon her council.

Even as time goes by she admits "as the years go on you can develop a better philosophy, and have time to crystalize your ideas."

South's first rebid in today's hand is only two hearts since he has only 14 points in high cards and a very poor fit with his partner's diamonds. When North then tries again with a bid of three clubs, South can afford to bid game. North's bidding shows more than 10 points, and there is likely to be a fine play for game.

When West opens the queen of spades, South must resist the temptation to cover with dummy's king. There is no reason to suppose that West has led from a suit headed by the ace and queen. East must have the ace of spades, and it can therefore do no good to play dummy's king.

When West is allowed to hold the first trick with his queen of spades, he can do nothing to defeat the contract. He continues with spades, and East takes the ace. East returns a low trump, and South must hop right up with the ace. Declarer next cashes the ace of diamonds, enters dummy with the ace of clubs, and carefully discards his last spade on the king of diamonds.

At this point South can afford to give up a trump trick to West's king. South can regain the lead no matter what West returns, and it is then just a matter of drawing trumps and claiming the rest of the tricks.

South would lose his contract if he played the king of spades from the dummy at the first trick. East would win the first trick with the ace of spades and return the suit, whereupon West would win and lead a third spade. East would over-ruff the dummy, thus winning the third defensive trick. West would eventually get his king of trumps to set the contract.

College Begins Drive For Holland Relief

New Paltz, Feb. 16—Campus friendships with Dutch students and heartfelt sympathy for fellow human beings in distress have spurred students at State University Teachers College at New Paltz to a fund drive for Holland flood relief.

Sponsorship of the project was voted earlier this week by student council. Walter Chasket has been named chairman.

Working in cooperation with the clothing and food drive sponsored by the Kirk League of the local Dutch Reformed Church, the college committee will accept contributions of money in the name of the New Paltz Holland Flood Relief. Anyone wishing to contribute funds is urged to send donations in care of Hugh Quinn, State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

Two tag days are also being planned—one for college students on February 24, one for the community February 25. Announcement of the program will be made in all New Paltz churches Sunday.

Jansen Family Involved

Max Jansen, student at New Paltz this year, whose home is in The Hague, revealed in an interview that although his family does not live in the flooded districts, they are directly involved in the worst disaster to hit their homeland in nearly five centuries. Max's father is an engineer and possessor of hydraulics at the University of Delft, and top advisor to the Dutch government on problems of dike repair.

Questioned about the possible fate of Henry Van Sandick, his Dutch student predecessor at New Paltz last year, Max said that Henry is probably working on excavation operations in the stricken area since the universities have closed in order to free students and professors for active emergency duty.

Letters Are Graphic

Graphic description of flood conditions in Holland is contained in exerpts from letters received by Jansen since the disaster hit his homeland 10 days ago.

"Feb. 2— . . . tower bells pealed, sirens wailed. State of emergency. Holland was flooded—400 people drowned. . . ."

"Feb. 4— . . . hundreds of people still cling to the tops of the roofs, waiting and praying for rescue. It is raining and snowing, much wind. The miseries can not be described—873 people drowned. . . ."

"Feb. 5— . . . many airplanes are searching for victims. American, Belgian and French armies help as much as possible. This is wonderful, it gives faith in mankind. But it is a terrible catastrophe, nobody can realize what actually happened. It is too bad that it came just now, at the very moment we were recovering from the war damage — 1,273 people drowned. . . ."

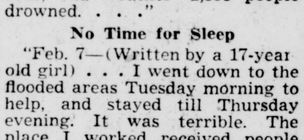

"Feb. 6— . . . the news is monotonous. More gaps, more victims, bad weather—1,353 people drowned. . . ."

No Time for Sleep

"Feb. 7—(Written by a 17-year old girl) . . . I went down to the flooded areas Tuesday morning to help, and stayed till Thursday evening. It was terrible. The place I worked received people from a totally flooded island. About 1,500 people a day. No time for sleep. The evacuees are very courageous. Not once I heard one complain. They spoke about their drowned relatives without realizing what really happened. All were grateful for the help they got, except the ones who got insane because of all they saw. Many of them saw their child or their husband die without being able to do anything. . . ."

"Feb. 8— . . . estimated damage $300,000,000. Probably more than 3,000 people drowned. Two thousand square miles flooded, being one sixth of Holland's total area. It will take one year to repair the dikes, another year to fertilize the soil, which is now spoiled by the salt sea water. . . . But there is one magnificent aspect in this disaster: the way the world helps. From all over Europe and from America, clothes, food, and money stream to Holland. This is a wonderful thing because, besides the material help, it is a mental help, too. People here know that they don't stand alone in their struggle against nature. We are strengthened by the sympathy from all over the world. We really are grateful. . . ."

To Induct Students Into Honor Society

New Paltz, Feb. 16—On Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 3 p. m., the New Paltz Central High School will hold its' annual induction ceremony to the National Honor Society. This year two seniors and five juniors will be added to the organization. The public is cordially invited to attend the program which will be held in the auditorium.

It was announced today by Joan M. Aldous, guidance counselor and chairman of the Career Day committee at the High School, that parents, former students and members of the community are cordially invited to attend the fourth annual Career Day to be held on Thursday, March 5, at the high school.

The morning program will be highlighted by an address by Edwin R. Van Kleeck, assistant commissioner of education for the state of New York. Group conferences will be conducted about liberal arts colleges, business training, junior colleges, agricultural and technical institutes, teachers colleges, Nursing schools, employment opportunities, ROTC instruction groups and the armed forces.

The afternoon program includes the showing of a film entitled Finding Your Life Work in which a man fishing points up the fact that experienced fishermen are particular about bait. In getting a job the baits required are personality, training and experience. Discussions of these important points are made both in sound and picture. Also included in the afternoon program will be group meetings in which opportunities in aviation, civil service, engineering, forestry, industry, insurance work, printing and lithographing, photography, secretarial work and the trades will be discussed and explained by outstanding people in these fields.

Erik-Alt Exhibition Praised in Review

New Paltz, Feb. 16—The current exhibition of 27 drawings and paintings by Lenore Erik-Alt in the College Union Building of the State University Teachers College at New Paltz has an admirable coherency which indicates the artist's seriousness of purpose and sureness of direction. The works exhibited are characterized, generally, by economy of forms and bold brushwork. Often using figures, landscapes, still lifes as a point of departure, this young Minnesota artist creates forceful studies of the movement and the spatial relationships discovered in life.

In several paintings, notably Wheels and Kites and Balancing, vibrant lines snap and swirl through a world of tersely balanced shapes and forms. Shaded forms are strongly brushed in to add to the total movement which the paintings express very capably.

Mountain Fishermen and Ocean Fishermen deal with the same problems of movement but retain subject matter in more easily recognizable form. The fish lines whip and crack across subtly-colored forms of fishermen at their sport. The bodies of the fishermen are tensely balanced in the same manner as the shapes mentioned earlier. The four paintings above are admirably suited to showing the development of a concept of pictorial movement and spatial relationships at various levels of abstraction from the natural forms which serve as the basis for the paintings.

A similar development of theme is found in a small series of studies of landscape and tree forms in which, at one extreme, one finds a delicately balanced study of trees from which all has been eliminated except a concise statement of relative position. At the other extreme of this group is the very expressive Trees in which the artist reveals a fine ability to integrate color into the scheme of her world. This painting and Beach at Night are two of the outstanding works in the exhibition.

A series of five variations on one basic theme in bold blacks and whites allows us to understand the manner in which the artist explores a single idea.

Two works, one a cottage, the other an oil painting, seem at a glance to be somewhat out of keeping with the general tenor of the exhibit. The cottage, which is purely abstract in conception, reflects the rhythmic vertical line structure of the studies of tree forms. It is a handsome study of shiny black verticals among which pink textured shapes create slightly diagonal movements. The painting, a very charming study of a building among trees strongly-planed by contrast with other studies of trees, is further evidence of ability to handle color exceedingly well. It lacks the vigor of other paintings in the exhibit but is a successful study in a minor key.

Mrs. Erik-Alt, a graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, is an assistant professor of Art at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. Although her work has been widely exhibited throughout the midwest, this is the first opportunity eastern audiences have had to see her paintings.

All paintings in the exhibition are for sale at modest prices. The exhibition is available for further showings at schools or galleries with adequate facilities for displaying the paintings. Inquiries concerning sales or booking of the exhibition should be addressed to Prof. Benjamin Karp, chairman of the art committee at the college.

South's first rebid in today's hand is only two hearts since he has only 14 points in high cards and a very poor fit with his partner's diamonds. When North then tries again with a bid of three clubs, South can afford to bid game. North's bidding shows more than 10 points, and there is likely to be a fine play for game.

When West opens the queen of spades, South must resist the temptation to cover with dummy's king. There is no reason to suppose that West has led from a suit headed by the ace and queen. East must have the ace of spades, and it can therefore do no good to play dummy's king.

When West is allowed to hold the first trick with his queen of spades, he can do nothing to defeat the contract. He continues with spades, and East takes the ace. East returns a low trump, and South must hop right up with the ace. Declarer next cashes the ace of diamonds, enters dummy with the ace of clubs, and carefully discards his last spade on the king of diamonds.

At this point South can afford to give up a trump trick to West's king. South can regain the lead no matter what West returns, and it is then just a matter of drawing trumps and claiming the rest of the tricks.

South would lose his contract if he played the king of spades from the dummy at the first trick. East would win the first trick with the ace of spades and return the suit, whereupon West would win and lead a third spade. East would over-ruff the dummy, thus winning the third defensive trick. West would eventually get his king of trumps to set the contract.

College Begins Drive For Holland Relief

New Paltz, Feb. 16—Campus friendships with Dutch students and heartfelt sympathy for fellow human beings in distress have spurred students at State University Teachers College at New Paltz to a fund drive for Holland flood relief.

Sponsorship of the project was voted earlier this week by student council. Walter Chasket has been named chairman.

Working in cooperation with the clothing and food drive sponsored by the Kirk League of the local Dutch Reformed Church, the college committee will accept contributions of money in the name of the New Paltz Holland Flood Relief. Anyone wishing to contribute funds is urged to send donations in care of Hugh Quinn, State University Teachers College, New Paltz.

Two tag days are also being planned—one for college students on February 24, one for the community February 25. Announcement of the program will be made in all New Paltz churches Sunday.

Jansen Family Involved

Max Jansen, student at New Paltz this year, whose home is in The Hague, revealed in an interview that although his family does not live in the flooded districts, they are directly involved in the worst disaster to hit their homeland in nearly five centuries. Max's father is an engineer and possessor of hydraulics at the University of Delft, and top advisor to the Dutch government on problems of dike repair.

Questioned about the possible fate of Henry Van Sandick, his Dutch student predecessor at New Paltz last year, Max said that Henry is probably working on excavation operations in the stricken area since the universities have closed in order to free students and professors for active emergency duty.

Letters Are Graphic

Graphic description of flood conditions in Holland is contained in exerpts from letters received by Jansen since the disaster hit his homeland 10 days ago.

"Feb. 2— . . . tower bells pealed, sirens wailed. State of emergency. Holland was flooded—400 people drowned. . . ."

"Feb. 4— . . . hundreds of people still cling to the tops of the roofs, waiting and praying for rescue. It is raining and snowing, much wind. The miseries can not be described—873 people drowned. . . ."

"Feb. 5— . . . many airplanes are searching for victims. American, Belgian and French armies help as much as possible. This is wonderful, it gives faith in mankind. But it is a terrible catastrophe, nobody can realize what actually happened. It is too bad that it came just now, at the very moment we were recovering from the war damage — 1,273 people drowned. . . ."

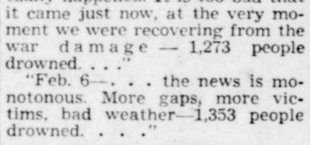

"Feb. 6— . . . the news is monotonous. More gaps, more victims, bad weather—1,353 people drowned. . . ."

No Time for Sleep

"Feb. 7—(Written by a 17-year old girl) . . . I went down to the flooded areas Tuesday morning to help, and stayed till Thursday evening. It was terrible. The place I worked received people from a totally flooded island. About 1,500 people a day. No time for sleep. The evacuees are very courageous. Not once I heard one complain. They spoke about their drowned relatives without realizing what really happened. All were grateful for the help they got, except the ones who got insane because of all they saw. Many of them saw their child or their husband die without being able to do anything. . . ."

"Feb. 8— . . . estimated damage $300,000,000. Probably more than 3,000 people drowned. Two thousand square miles flooded, being one sixth of Holland's total area. It will take one year to repair the dikes, another year to fertilize the soil, which is now spoiled by the salt sea water. . . . But there is one magnificent aspect in this disaster: the way the world helps. From all over Europe and from America, clothes, food, and money stream to Holland. This is a wonderful thing because, besides the material help, it is a mental help, too. People here know that they don't stand alone in their struggle against nature. We are strengthened by the sympathy from all over the world. We really are grateful. . . ."

This year two seniors and five juniors will be added to the organization. The public is cordially invited to attend the program which will be held in the auditorium.

It was announced today by Joan M. Aldous, guidance counselor and chairman of the Career Day committee at the High School, that parents, former students and members of the community are cordially invited to attend the fourth annual Career Day to be held on Thursday, March 5, at the high school.

The morning program will be highlighted by an address by Edwin R. Van Kleeck, assistant commissioner of education for the state of New York. Group conferences will be conducted about liberal arts colleges, business training, junior colleges, agricultural and technical institutes, teachers colleges, Nursing schools, employment opportunities, ROTC instruction groups and the armed forces.

The afternoon program includes the showing of a film entitled Finding Your Life Work in which a man fishing points up the fact that experienced fishermen are particular about bait. In getting a job the baits required are personality, training and experience. Discussions of these important points are made both in sound and picture. Also included in the afternoon program will be group meetings in which opportunities in aviation, civil service, engineering, forestry, industry, insurance work, printing and lithographing, photography, secretarial work and the trades will be discussed and explained by outstanding people in these fields.

Erik-Alt Exhibition Praised in Review

New Paltz, Feb. 16—The current exhibition of 27 drawings and paintings by Lenore Erik-Alt in the College Union Building of the State University Teachers College at New Paltz has an admirable coherency which indicates the artist's seriousness of purpose and sureness of direction. The works exhibited are characterized, generally, by economy of forms and bold brushwork. Often using figures, landscapes, still lifes as a point of departure, this young Minnesota artist creates forceful studies of the movement and the spatial relationships discovered in life.

In several paintings, notably Wheels and Kites and Balancing, vibrant lines snap and swirl through a world of tersely balanced shapes and forms. Shaded forms are strongly brushed in to add to the total movement which the paintings express very capably.

Mountain Fishermen and Ocean Fishermen deal with the same problems of movement but retain subject matter in more easily recognizable form. The fish lines whip and crack across subtly-colored forms of fishermen at their sport. The bodies of the fishermen are tensely balanced in the same manner as the shapes mentioned earlier. The four paintings above are admirably suited to showing the development of a concept of pictorial movement and spatial relationships at various levels of abstraction from the natural forms which serve as the basis for the paintings.

A similar development of theme is found in a small series of studies of landscape and tree forms in which, at one extreme, one finds a delicately balanced study of trees from which all has been eliminated except a concise statement of relative position. At the other extreme of this group is the very expressive Trees in which the artist reveals a fine ability to integrate color into the scheme of her world. This painting and Beach at Night are two of the outstanding works in the exhibition.

A series of five variations on one basic theme in bold blacks and whites allows us to understand the manner in which the artist explores a single idea.

Two works, one a cottage, the other an oil painting, seem at a glance to be somewhat out of keeping with the general tenor of the exhibit. The cottage, which is purely abstract in conception, reflects the rhythmic vertical line structure of the studies of tree forms. It is a handsome study of shiny black verticals among which pink textured shapes create slightly diagonal movements. The painting, a very charming study of a building among trees strongly-planed by contrast with other studies of trees, is further evidence of ability to handle color exceedingly well. It lacks the vigor of other paintings in the exhibit but is a successful study in a minor key.

Mrs. Erik-Alt, a graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, is an assistant professor of Art at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. Although her work has been widely exhibited throughout the midwest, this is the first opportunity eastern audiences have had to see her paintings.

All paintings in the exhibition are for sale at modest prices. The exhibition is available for further showings at schools or galleries with adequate facilities for displaying the paintings. Inquiries concerning sales or booking of the exhibition should be addressed to Prof. Benjamin Karp, chairman of the art committee at the college.

Excavators Win City Championship With 2970 High Net Series

Herzogs Rap 3158 Sunday Night To Nail Down Gross Team Title

The Economy Excavators, who exploded for a 2970 net series Thursday night in the city tournament firing at the Central Recreation alleys, emerged today from the 16th annual championships as city champions.

For awhile Sunday it looked as though the Excavators were well on their way to a clean sweep of both the net and gross series but a squad from the Central Rec League changed this outlook and the Excavators had to be satisfied with the net series championship as well as the city championship laurels.

Herzog's Supply pulled the sensational surprise ending to the five-man team championships during the final shift Sunday night with a sizzling 3158 score to nail down the gross team honors and a $125 guaranteed first place prize as well.

The 3158 blast featured a mad scrambling of teams on the standing board during the final day of the week-long tournament which saw 94 association teams assault the mid-town planks for the biggest prize melon record in the KBA.

Powered by Ed Thomas who shot a 606 net triple and 699 gross, Herzog's poured out games of 858-907-892 plus a 501 handicap for their last shift record-breaking score of 3158.

Up until last night's final shift getting underway at 9:15 o'clock, Economy Excavators had held down both the net and gross leadership of the tournament. Their Thursday night firing gave the Excavators a 2970 net series and a 3147 gross blast but Herzog's ended all thoughts of a two-way sweep with their 3158 score, topping the Excavators by 11 pins.

Meanwhile, the Excavators' 2970 score won them the team high series net championship of the tournament while their 3147 was good enough for second place in the prize list with a $100 cash award. The 2970 net was good also for $15.

Maxwell Shoots 245

Bert Maxwell was one of the big reasons why Herzog's rolled to their majestic triumph. A 152-average bowler, Maxwell unloaded a solid 245 middle game as the gross champs fired 907. Maxwell finished with a 554 net score and 662 gross series, second high on his squad. Bill Hornbeck and Don Zeidler topped the rest of the Herzog squad with 507 and 503 net triples.

There were plenty of other fireworks during the last day of the tournament Sunday.

Modjeska Signs, another last shift squad, moved into third place in the gross division with a 3119 triple while the First Baptist Men, from the YMCA Federation League, uncorked a surprising 3117 gross series. The Baptists had held down second place until the last shift, the Baptists having riddled the Central Recs with their 3117 at the 4 p. m. Sunday squad.

Lawrence Ties Halbert

Perhaps Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will have to come up with another trophy to be awarded to the net high single winner of the city tournament.

Ralph Halbert authored a sizzling 268 solo during the first night's action last Monday and the score stood up until yesterday's firing. Bill Lawrence, the cigar-smoking kegler from Sunset Park, riddled the maples for a 268 to throw this fight into a two-way tie.

Rafalowsky's Win Gross Singles

Although placing 24th in the gross team division, Rafalowsky's won the team high single gross shift splurge last night. The championship in another last Broadway Clothiers, sparked by Harry Wilber's 228 and Randy Kelder's 214, shot 1109 in their middle game and wound up with a 2952 gross score.

Two scores weathering the heavy avalanche of pin-busting during the weekend which remained untouched on the standing boards were Joe Maurer's high series of 650 and the Pontiac Broadway Garage high net single of 1050.

La Salle Is Due to Get NIT Bid Today to Defend Title

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Don't be surprised if an announcement today says La Salle's Explorers will defend their title in the National Invitation basketball tournament opening in Madison Square Garden, March 7.

From an authoritative source it was learned the Philadelphia school has been approached by both the NIT, a 12-team affair, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The NCAA's 23-team tournament opens March 9 with 14 conference champions and nine at-large teams forming the field.

Lucrative Tourney

And the same source said La Salle (20-2) favors competing in the Garden tourney, where it surprised by copping the championship a year ago. The source said the players themselves favor the NIT because it would give them an opportunity to play before more of their rooters.

La Salle's athletic officials also are said to lean towards the NIT because the financial remuneration promises to be more lucrative than the wide-spread NCAA competition. The Philadelphians took home around $9,000 last year.

Asa Bushnell, chairman of the NIT selection committee, declined to comment other than to say there probably will be an nouncement today.

Of course such an announcement also might mean the acceptance of Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 ranking team with a 24-0 mark, or Manhattan, New York's most logical representative off its 16-2 record.

Out west the top NCAA candidates are Oklahoma City (14-3), Seattle (21-3) and Santa Clara. In addition to La Salle, Manhattan and Seton Hall, the leading contenders for the five eastern berths are Niagara (17-4), Navy (13-4), Fordham (16-4), DePaul (17-6), Western Kentucky (20-4), Louisville (18-4) and possibly Duquesne (14-7) and Villanova (15-7).

Idaho State already has qualified for the NCAA as Rocky Mountain Conference champion, but there still are some tough games ahead for the leading contenders in other conferences.

Here's the situation:

Pacific Coast — Northern division probably will be decided this weekend when Washington (12-0) entertains second place Oregon (8-4) in a pair of home games. California (6-2) holds a firm grip on southern division lead.

Indiana in Lead

Big Ten—Indiana (11-0) away out in front with only Illinois (9-2) to worry about. They meet Feb. 28.

Big Seven—Defending champion Kansas (6-2) and Kansas State (4-2) meet Tuesday at Manhattan in a game that figures to determine the eventual titleholder.

Skyline — Wyoming's Cowboys (8-2) fell to second Saturday by losing, 58-56, to Utah State, enabling Brigham Young to take over the lead with an 8-1 record after spilling Utah, 62-50.

Southwest—The usual see-saw affair with Texas (6-2) on top. Texas Christian is 5-2 and Rice 5-3.

Missouri Valley—The Oklahoma Aggies dropped a surprise 73-62 decision to last place Wichita but still tops the league at 5-1. Tulsa is second with 4-2.

Southeastern—It looks like Louisiana State all the way since the Tigers have a 9-0 record. Florida is second with 6-2.

Southern—Standings don't mean anything since the conference champion will be selected in tournament play, but North Carolina is at the top with 15-3 and North Carolina State has 11-3.

Border—Arizona (8-1) has game and a half margin over Texas Tech (6-2).

Wiltwycks Top Angels

Wiltwyck Motors handed Harry's Angels a staggering 101-91 defeat Saturday night in the YMCA "A" League.

The defeat knocked the Angels out of the league lead forcing them into a playoff game for second round honors with the Three Brothers.

Carpouzis Scores 37

Holstein and Dunham each clicked for 19 points for the Angels while East followed with 14.

In another A Division tilt, Lincoln Park Inn turned back Economy Construction in a high-scoring affair, 86 to 75.

Dempsey Hits 35

Don Dempsey, forward for the Construction cagers, found the range for 35 markers.

'Scooch' Is Feted By Bowling Mates For Record Series

Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president, was honored by her Kaye Sportwair teammates and friends at an informal dinner dance at the SRS Home in Cottekill Saturday night for her all-time area record-busting 722 series recently rolled in the Woman's Classic league at Ferraro's Bowlodrome.

The event was emceed by George Flemings, introducing the bowling personalities who made the various awards. On behalf of "Scooch's" teammates, Helene Mollenhauer, KWBA secretary, presented the guest of honor with life membership in the 700 Club of America and membership in the Les Dames de 700 Club, together with a scrapbook containing photos and news clippings pertaining to her outstanding achievement on the bowling lanes. Mrs. Mollenhauer also read a letter of congraulations and best wishes from Mrs. Iolia Lasher, president of the New York State Woman's Bowling Association, Inc. This was followed by presentation of a special trophy commemorating Betty's bowling record by Addison Jones, former KBA president and outstanding bowling enthusiast.

KBA Extends Wishes

Other gifts presented to Miss Schoonmaker included a suitably inscribed lighter presented by Mrs. Beverly Port on behalf of the Kaye Sportwair quintette, and a personal gift from Rose Schatzel, presented by Kingston's perennial bowling queen.

Remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by KBA president, Thomas Orr, and past KBA president and bowling devotee, Peter Keresman. A telegram of congratulations and best wishes was read from the Kingston Freeman sports editor, Charles J. Tiano, en route to Florida.

Honor guests included Mrs. Scott Schoonmaker, mother of the illustrious keglerette; William Eagan, and Dolores Gillen, a close personal friend of Miss Schoonmaker. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. George Flemings.

AAU Top Brass Blamed for Industrial League Basketball Hokum in the U.S.

— Lowdown on Huckster Basketball —

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
(NEA Sports Writer)
(Last of a Series)

Criticism of AAU huckster basketball evolves in the final analysis of AAU supervision.

"AAU in my own mind is a lot of hokum from top to bottom," says a former coach of one of the big industrial teams. "This goes from Avery Brundage on down. I know them all, and I have been on the Olympic Games committee with them.

And, adds sports editor Russ Lynch of Milwaukee, "I've whacked at the AAU for years because it is a smug outfit which is not consistent in its rule enforcement and not realistic in its handling of amateur sports."

Thus in Wisconsin, industrial teams which played preliminaries to professional games were ruled ineligible as amateurs for "contamination" while a Bedford, Ind., team which played two exhibitions AGAINST the professional Milwaukee Hawks later performed in the National AAU tournament

Joe White of the Santa Maria, Calif., industrial league team has a coaching job. Under AAU rules coaches are pros.

Recruiting Evils

Hank Luisetti made a movie, collected $20,000 and was declared a pro. When he returned to San Francisco, he was reinstated and made eligible to play AAU ball.

The compelling urge to have winning teams, to get one's product associated with a winner, leads inevitably to recruiting evils in the National Industrial Basketball League. It has bred a species of tramp athlete.

Bob Hursch and Madison Stanford migrated from defunct Dayton to Santa Maria, Calif., which also picked up Sherman Nearman from Akron.

The REA Travelers of Artesia, N. M., lost Dick Eicher to the Denver Bankers. Guy Buccola played with three different AAU teams before landing with Kirby Shoes of Los Angeles. Les O'Gara of Kirby's is another AAU veteran who's made the rounds.

When Gordy Carpenter, a Phillips veteran of several seasons, didn't succeed to the coaching job he upped in a huff to Denver.

This is supposed to be basketball as an avocation?

O'Brien Crashes 3,000 Point Mark

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 16 (AP) — Seattle's fabulous little Johnny O'Brien, who beats foes with hook shots but balances their athletic budgets, became college basketball's first 3000-point player last night, then said:

"Bevo can have it now."

He might have meant basketball in general for O'Brien gives the impression he just tolerates the game until baseball, his first love, comes around. He's an infielder and a top prospect.

Clarence (Bevo) Francis, the Rio Grande College freshman, has already beaten O'Brien's single season record of 1051 points, but no one ever scored 3000 in a collegiate career before.

O'Brien, a 5-foot 9-inch senior who has perfected every shot in the book, hit 3000 amid his greatest night. He scored 51 points in a 109-68 mauling of Gonzaga which had upset Seattle the night before.

Teammates and fans swarmed all over Johnny at the finish, hoisted him on their shoulders and showered him with confetti, well wishers streamed into the dressing room.

"Ya, Bevo can have it now. I've beat him to 3000," Johnny grinned.

Excavators Win City Championship With 2970 High Net Series

Herzogs Rap 3158 Sunday Night To Nail Down Gross Team Title

The Economy Excavators, who exploded for a 2970 net series Thursday night in the city tournament firing at the Central Recreation alleys, emerged today from the 16th annual championships as city champions.

For awhile Sunday it looked as though the Excavators were well on their way to a clean sweep of both the net and gross series but a squad from the Central Rec League changed this outlook and the Excavators had to be satisfied with the net series championship as well as the city championship laurels.

Herzog's Supply pulled the sensational surprise ending to the five-man team championships during the final shift Sunday night with a sizzling 3158 score to nail down the gross team honors and a $125 guaranteed first place prize as well.

The 3158 blast featured a mad scrambling of teams on the standing board during the final day of the week-long tournament which saw 94 association teams assault the mid-town planks for the biggest prize melon record in the KBA.

Powered by Ed Thomas who shot a 606 net triple and 699 gross, Herzog's poured out games of 858-907-892 plus a 501 handicap for their last shift record-breaking score of 3158.

Up until last night's final shift getting underway at 9:15 o'clock, Economy Excavators had held down both the net and gross leadership of the tournament. Their Thursday night firing gave the Excavators a 2970 net series and a 3147 gross blast but Herzog's ended all thoughts of a two-way sweep with their 3158 score, topping the Excavators by 11 pins.

Meanwhile, the Excavators' 2970 score won them the team high series net championship of the tournament while their 3147 was good enough for second place in the prize list with a $100 cash award. The 2970 net was good also for $15.

Maxwell Shoots 245

Bert Maxwell was one of the big reasons why Herzog's rolled to their majestic triumph. A 152-average bowler, Maxwell unloaded a solid 245 middle game as the gross champs fired 907. Maxwell finished with a 554 net score and 662 gross series, second high on his squad. Bill Hornbeck and Don Zeidler topped the rest of the Herzog squad with 507 and 503 net triples.

There were plenty of other fireworks during the last day of the tournament Sunday.

Modjeska Signs, another last shift squad, moved into third place in the gross division with a 3119 triple while the First Baptist Men, from the YMCA Federation League, uncorked a surprising 3117 gross series. The Baptists had held down second place until the last shift, the Baptists having riddled the Central Recs with their 3117 at the 4 p. m. Sunday squad.

Lawrence Ties Halbert

Perhaps Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will have to come up with another trophy to be awarded to the net high single winner of the city tournament.

Ralph Halbert authored a sizzling 268 solo during the first night's action last Monday and the score stood up until yesterday's firing. Bill Lawrence, the cigar-smoking kegler from Sunset Park, riddled the maples for a 268 to throw this fight into a two-way tie.

Rafalowsky's Win Gross Singles

Although placing 24th in the gross team division, Rafalowsky's won the team high single gross shift splurge last night. The championship in another last Broadway Clothiers, sparked by Harry Wilber's 228 and Randy Kelder's 214, shot 1109 in their middle game and wound up with a 2952 gross score.

Two scores weathering the heavy avalanche of pin-busting during the weekend which remained untouched on the standing boards were Joe Maurer's high series of 650 and the Pontiac Broadway Garage high net single of 1050.

'Scooch' Is Feted By Bowling Mates For Record Series

Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president, was honored by her Kaye Sportwair teammates and friends at an informal dinner dance at the SRS Home in Cottekill Saturday night for her all-time area record-busting 722 series recently rolled in the Woman's Classic league at Ferraro's Bowlodrome.

The event was emceed by George Flemings, introducing the bowling personalities who made the various awards. On behalf of "Scooch's" teammates, Helene Mollenhauer, KWBA secretary, presented the guest of honor with life membership in the 700 Club of America and membership in the Les Dames de 700 Club, together with a scrapbook containing photos and news clippings pertaining to her outstanding achievement on the bowling lanes. Mrs. Mollenhauer also read a letter of congraulations and best wishes from Mrs. Iolia Lasher, president of the New York State Woman's Bowling Association, Inc. This was followed by presentation of a special trophy commemorating Betty's bowling record by Addison Jones, former KBA president and outstanding bowling enthusiast.

KBA Extends Wishes

Other gifts presented to Miss Schoonmaker included a suitably inscribed lighter presented by Mrs. Beverly Port on behalf of the Kaye Sportwair quintette, and a personal gift from Rose Schatzel, presented by Kingston's perennial bowling queen.

Remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by KBA president, Thomas Orr, and past KBA president and bowling devotee, Peter Keresman. A telegram of congratulations and best wishes was read from the Kingston Freeman sports editor, Charles J. Tiano, en route to Florida.

Honor guests included Mrs. Scott Schoonmaker, mother of the illustrious keglerette; William Eagan, and Dolores Gillen, a close personal friend of Miss Schoonmaker. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. George Flemings.

La Salle Is Due to Get NIT Bid Today to Defend Title

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Don't be surprised if an announcement today says La Salle's Explorers will defend their title in the National Invitation basketball tournament opening in Madison Square Garden, March 7.

From an authoritative source it was learned the Philadelphia school has been approached by both the NIT, a 12-team affair, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The NCAA's 23-team tournament opens March 9 with 14 conference champions and nine at-large teams forming the field.

Lucrative Tourney

And the same source said La Salle (20-2) favors competing in the Garden tourney, where it surprised by copping the championship a year ago. The source said the players themselves favor the NIT because it would give them an opportunity to play before more of their rooters.

La Salle's athletic officials also are said to lean towards the NIT because the financial remuneration promises to be more lucrative than the wide-spread NCAA competition. The Philadelphians took home around $9,000 last year.

Asa Bushnell, chairman of the NIT selection committee, declined to comment other than to say there probably will be an announcement today.

Of course such an announcement also might mean the acceptance of Seton Hall, the nation's No. 1 ranking team with a 24-0 mark, or Manhattan, New York's most logical representative off its 16-2 record.

Out west the top NCAA candidates are Oklahoma City (14-3), Seattle (21-3) and Santa Clara. In addition to La Salle, Manhattan and Seton Hall, the leading contenders for the five eastern berths are Niagara (17-4), Navy (13-4), Fordham (16-4), DePaul (17-6), Western Kentucky (20-4), Louisville (18-4) and possibly Duquesne (14-7) and Villanova (15-7).

Idaho State already has qualified for the NCAA as Rocky Mountain Conference champion, but there still are some tough games ahead for the leading contenders in other conferences.

Here's the situation:

Pacific Coast — Northern division probably will be decided this weekend when Washington (12-0) entertains second place Oregon (8-4) in a pair of home games. California (6-2) holds a firm grip on southern division lead.

Indiana in Lead

Big Ten—Indiana (11-0) away out in front with only Illinois (9-2) to worry about. They meet Feb. 28.

Big Seven—Defending champion Kansas (6-2) and Kansas State (4-2) meet Tuesday at Manhattan in a game that figures to determine the eventual titleholder.

Skyline — Wyoming's Cowboys (8-2) fell to second Saturday by losing, 58-56, to Utah State, enabling Brigham Young to take over the lead with an 8-1 record after spilling Utah, 62-50.

Southwest—The usual see-saw affair with Texas (6-2) on top. Texas Christian is 5-2 and Rice 5-3.

Missouri Valley—The Oklahoma Aggies dropped a surprise 73-62 decision to last place Wichita but still tops the league at 5-1. Tulsa is second with 4-2.

Southeastern—It looks like Louisiana State all the way since the Tigers have a 9-0 record. Florida is second with 6-2.

Southern—Standings don't mean anything since the conference champion will be selected in tournament play, but North Carolina is at the top with 15-3 and North Carolina State has 11-3.

Border—Arizona (8-1) has game and a half margin over Texas Tech (6-2).

Wiltwycks Top Angels

Wiltwyck Motors handed Harry's Angels a staggering 101-91 defeat Saturday night in the YMCA "A" League.

The defeat knocked the Angels out of the league lead forcing them into a playoff game for second round honors with the Three Brothers.

Carpouzis Scores 37

Big Bill Kleine sparked the Motormen with 31 points, 26 coming on fields. Herm Sickler followed with 22. George Carpouzis of the Angels was the game's No. 1 scorer with a bevy of 37 markers.

Holstein and Dunham each clicked for 19 points for the Angels while East followed with 14.

In another A Division tilt, Lincoln Park Inn turned back Economy Construction in a high-scoring affair, 86 to 75.

Dempsey Hits 35

Don Dempsey, forward for the Construction cagers, found the range for 35 markers.

AAU Top Brass Blamed for Industrial League Basketball Hokum in the U.S.

— Lowdown on Huckster Basketball —

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
(NEA Sports Writer)
(Last of a Series)

Criticism of AAU huckster basketball evolves in the final analysis of AAU supervision.

"AAU in my own mind is a lot of hokum from top to bottom," says a former coach of one of the big industrial teams. "This goes from Avery Brundage on down. I know them all, and I have been on the Olympic Games committee with them.

"The whole thing is a hypocritical deal. They are all a bunch of politicians."

And, adds sports editor Russ Lynch of Milwaukee, "I've whacked at the AAU for years because it is a smug outfit which is not consistent in its rule enforcement and not realistic in its handling of amateur sports."

Thus in Wisconsin, industrial teams which played preliminaries to professional games were ruled ineligible as amateurs for "contamination" while a Bedford, Ind., team which played two exhibitions AGAINST the professional Milwaukee Hawks later performed in the National AAU tournament

Joe White of the Santa Maria, Calif., industrial league team has a coaching job. Under AAU rules coaches are pros.

Recruiting Evils

Hank Luisetti made a movie, collected $20,000 and was declared a pro. When he returned to San Francisco, he was reinstated and made eligible to play AAU ball.

The compelling urge to have winning teams, to get one's product associated with a winner, leads inevitably to recruiting evils in the National Industrial Basketball League. It has bred a species of tramp athlete.

Bob Hursch and Madison Stanford migrated from defunct Dayton to Santa Maria, Calif., which also picked up Sherman Nearman from Akron.

The REA Travelers of Artesia, N. M., lost Dick Eicher to the Denver Bankers. Guy Buccola played with three different AAU teams before landing with Kirby Shoes of Los Angeles. Les O'Gara of Kirby's is another AAU veteran who's made the rounds.

When Gordy Carpenter, a Phillips veteran of several seasons, didn't succeed to the coaching job he upped in a huff to Denver.

This is supposed to be basketball as an avocation?

O'Brien Crashes 3,000 Point Mark

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 16 (AP) — Seattle's fabulous little Johnny O'Brien, who beats foes with hook shots but balances their athletic budgets, became college basketball's first 3000-point player last night, then said:

"Bevo can have it now."

He might have meant basketball in general for O'Brien gives the impression he just tolerates the game until baseball, his first love, comes around. He's an infielder and a top prospect.

Clarence (Bevo) Francis, the Rio Grande College freshman, has already beaten O'Brien's single season record of 1051 points, but no one ever scored 3000 in a collegiate career before.

O'Brien, a 5-foot 9-inch senior who has perfected every shot in the book, hit 3000 amid his greatest night. He scored 51 points in a 109-68 mauling of Gonzaga which had upset Seattle the night before.

Teammates and fans swarmed all over Johnny at the finish, hoisted him on their shoulders and showered him with confetti, well wishers streamed into the dressing room.

"Ya, Bevo can have it now. I've beat him to 3000," Johnny grinned.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Believe it or not, the tension around Fort Lauderdale, Fla., come Feb. 24 was considerably relieved by Middletown High's spectacular one-point upset of KHS last Friday night.

Not that we won't be thinking about KHS-Newburgh on Feb. 24. We will. The contest may be meaningless so far as the final DUSO standings are concerned, but this figures to be a historic night. When a 37-game winning streak is ground into the boards, it's a sight to watch. With the DUSO crown at stake it would have been even greater.

That's why we feel KHS students and the city's adult fans will jampack the municipal auditorium to cheer on the Maroons. Coach Masterson's Goldbacks have lived a charmed life these last few weeks but neither charm nor magic will stop KHS on Feb. 24.

The newly-formed Old Timers Baseball Association headed by Tom Davitt will prove a great rallying force for local baseball players. You have to be at least 40 years old to make the grade. The new organization will influence the course of local baseball, if the original members adhere to certain plans they discussed Thursday night. Matty Deegan proved an able reconteur at the Old Timers gathering. He is worth a couple of features we'll do on our return from the land of palm trees.

Florida, they say, is quite a treat for golfers who like their courses short and flat. And there is always the added inducement of stealing several strokes from Alex Gerlak and Joe Kwasney. The latter, who won the first Freeman hole-in-one tournament, is happily married and settled in Miami. "Bo" Gill, who no longer is concerned about the big date in Kingston and figures that NFA has it wrapped up, expects to head southward the next day.

If Economy Excavators win both divisions of the city tournament's five-man competition, they will have proved two things to the satisfaction of the tournament committee: 1. It can be done. 2. Any pair of alleys can be hit on a given occasion. Like No. 3 and 4 at the Central Recs. The Kingston delegation to the WIBC nationals has been cut in half, we hear, but a sizeable entry is expected to compete in the state tournament in Westchester county. Incidentally, Andy Murphy and Coach G. Warren Kias rate a bow for the splendid March of Dimes basketball promotion last Thursday. See you in a few weeks.

Reynolds Tops Dark In Impressive Game

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—As part owner of a new oil well in Oklahoma, Allie Reynolds doesn't have to depend on the New York Yankees for his pay checks any more.

And even if the oil well ran dry and the Yankees folded, the pitching hero of the 1952 World Series still could be fairly sure of earning his ham and eggs on a golf course.

Reynolds defeated Alvin Dark, New York Giant shortstop, for the National Baseball Players golf championship Sunday and convinced the gallery in the process that, if he set his mind to it, he could have himself a regular pay day in pro golf.

Like a true Yankee when the chips are down, Reynolds spotted Dark a 2-up lead at the 13th, then put on the pressure to capture three holes in a row and emerge with a 1-up victory on the 18th.

The only odd note in the setting was that a Yankee was the underdog. Dark, the Giant batting champion who handles a golf club almost as deftly as a bat, won the tournament in 1951 and was the favorite this year.

Ferraro's 711 Tops Lumberjacks; Club Unloads 1118-3252

Sparked by Johnny Ferraro's solid 711 triple, Miron Lumber took over the undisputed possession of first place in the Hudson Valley League Saturday night and authored two new league records in the bargain.

Mirons eclipsed two of their former highs for the HVBL with an 1118 third game score and a three-timer of 3252.

The Lumberjacks' former league records were an 1112 solo and 3156 triple.

Mirons, led by Ferraro, had four hefty 600 triples in backing up the "Ace." Larry Weishaupt followed Ferraro with a hat trick score of 202-207-246 for 655 as the Lumberjacks' turned back their home town rivals, Elston Sports Shop in three straight games at the Bowlodrome.

Harold Broskie was the No. 3 kegler on the squad with 213-202-222 for 637 while Hank Kemmerer stacked a pair of 215 games for 625 and Charlie "Juice" Manfro stroked 236-213 for 624.

Mirons sweep of Elstons plus Walden's surprising two-game victroy over the Veteran Cabs of Poughkeepsie, shoved the local trundlers into the top position.

Corrado Raps 688

Elstons, while on the losing end of the big hometown feud, didn't exactly play patsies in going down to defeat.

Phil Corrado's solid 688 triple led Elstons who cracked a sizzling 3180 triple. Corrado racked up scores of 232-201-255 for his hefty blast.

In rolling up their 3180 blast, Elstons poured out games of 1016-1057-1107.

Rapps Capture Two

Meanwhile in Saugerties, Rapp's Express bowling for the first time without Jim Moss who recently entered the armed forces, took two from the northern Ulster keglers.

George Shufeldt's 212-578 spearheaded Rapps in their conquest. Joe Ruzzo fired 203-560 while Bill Lawrence and Chris Gallo each came up with 524 series. T. Campanella's 210-559 blast topped the Saugerties efforts.

'U' Causes Typing Trouble

New York (AP)—The letter "u" and the world "conclusion" cause the most errors to commercial users of typewriters, say the deans of a chain of business schools (Speedwriting Institute). The deans think "u" may be troublesome because it is located in the center section of the keyboard near many other letters frequently used in commercial English.

Mirons Take HVBL Lead; Set Two Loop Records

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Believe it or not, the tension around Fort Lauderdale, Fla., come Feb. 24 was considerably relieved by Middletown High's spectacular one-point upset of KHS last Friday night.

Not that we won't be thinking about KHS-Newburgh on Feb. 24. We will. The contest may be meaningless so far as the final DUSO standings are concerned, but this figures to be a historic night. When a 37-game winning streak is ground into the boards, it's a sight to watch. With the DUSO crown at stake it would have been even greater.

That's why we feel KHS students and the city's adult fans will jampack the municipal auditorium to cheer on the Maroons. Coach Masterson's Goldbacks have lived a charmed life these last few weeks but neither charm nor magic will stop KHS on Feb. 24.

The newly-formed Old Timers Baseball Association headed by Tom Davitt will prove a great rallying force for local baseball players. You have to be at least 40 years old to make the grade. The new organization will influence the course of local baseball, if the original members adhere to certain plans they discussed Thursday night. Matty Deegan proved an able reconteur at the Old Timers gathering. He is worth a couple of features we'll do on our return from the land of palm trees.

Florida, they say, is quite a treat for golfers who like their courses short and flat. And there is always the added inducement of stealing several strokes from Alex Gerlak and Joe Kwasney. The latter, who won the first Freeman hole-in-one tournament, is happily married and settled in Miami. "Bo" Gill, who no longer is concerned about the big date in Kingston and figures that NFA has it wrapped up, expects to head southward the next day.

If Economy Excavators win both divisions of the city tournament's five-man competition, they will have proved two things to the satisfaction of the tournament committee: 1. It can be done. 2. Any pair of alleys can be hit on a given occasion. Like No. 3 and 4 at the Central Recs. The Kingston delegation to the WIBC nationals has been cut in half, we hear, but a sizeable entry is expected to compete in the state tournament in Westchester county. Incidentally, Andy Murphy and Coach G. Warren Kias rate a bow for the splendid March of Dimes basketball promotion last Thursday. See you in a few weeks.

Reynolds Tops Dark In Impressive Game

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—As part owner of a new oil well in Oklahoma, Allie Reynolds doesn't have to depend on the New York Yankees for his pay checks any more.

And even if the oil well ran dry and the Yankees folded, the pitching hero of the 1952 World Series still could be fairly sure of earning his ham and eggs on a golf course.

Reynolds defeated Alvin Dark, New York Giant shortstop, for the National Baseball Players golf championship Sunday and convinced the gallery in the process that, if he set his mind to it, he could have himself a regular pay day in pro golf.

Like a true Yankee when the chips are down, Reynolds spotted Dark a 2-up lead at the 13th, then put on the pressure to capture three holes in a row and emerge with a 1-up victory on the 18th.

The only odd note in the setting was that a Yankee was the underdog. Dark, the Giant batting champion who handles a golf club almost as deftly as a bat, won the tournament in 1951 and was the favorite this year.

Ferraro's 711 Tops Lumberjacks; Club Unloads 1118-3252

Sparked by Johnny Ferraro's solid 711 triple, Miron Lumber took over the undisputed possession of first place in the Hudson Valley League Saturday night and authored two new league records in the bargain.

Mirons eclipsed two of their former highs for the HVBL with an 1118 third game score and a three-timer of 3252.

The Lumberjacks' former league records were an 1112 solo and 3156 triple.

Mirons, led by Ferraro, had four hefty 600 triples in backing up the "Ace." Larry Weishaupt followed Ferraro with a hat trick score of 202-207-246 for 655 as the Lumberjacks' turned back their home town rivals, Elston Sports Shop in three straight games at the Bowlodrome.

Harold Broskie was the No. 3 kegler on the squad with 213-202-222 for 637 while Hank Kemmerer stacked a pair of 215 games for 625 and Charlie "Juice" Manfro stroked 236-213 for 624.

Mirons sweep of Elstons plus Walden's surprising two-game victroy over the Veteran Cabs of Poughkeepsie, shoved the local trundlers into the top position.

Corrado Raps 688

Elstons, while on the losing end of the big hometown feud, didn't exactly play patsies in going down to defeat.

Phil Corrado's solid 688 triple led Elstons who cracked a sizzling 3180 triple. Corrado racked up scores of 232-201-255 for his hefty blast.

Angie Ferraro fired 204-217-222 for 643; Dick Howard 241-217 for 637 and Tommy Amato 213-215 for 626 in the losing cause. Tommy Carlino completed the squad with 203-586.

In rolling up their 3180 blast, Elstons poured out games of 1016-1057-1107.

Rapps Capture Two

Meanwhile in Saugerties, Rapp's Express bowling for the first time without Jim Moss who recently entered the armed forces, took two from the northern Ulster keglers.

George Shufeldt's 212-578 spearheaded Rapps in their conquest. Joe Ruzzo fired 203-560 while Bill Lawrence and Chris Gallo each came up with 524 series. T. Campanella's 210-559 blast topped the Saugerties efforts.

'U' Causes Typing Trouble

New York (AP)—The letter "u" and the world "conclusion" cause the most errors to commercial users of typewriters, say the deans of a chain of business schools (Speedwriting Institute). The deans think "u" may be troublesome because it is located in the center section of the keyboard near many other letters frequently used in commercial English.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Feb. 16—The meeting of Highland Chapter, Order of Eastern Star was held Tuesday night in Masonic Temple with matron and patron, Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Harp presiding. An invitation was received to attend a meeting of the Greene-Ulster district at Emanuel chapter, Saugerties, Tuesday, Feb. 24, when Mrs. Edna Hardwich, district deputy and Charles Link, district grand lecturer make their official visit. A roast beef dinner will precede at the Flamingo, 6:30 p. m. Plans were discussed for a card party in April with Mrs. Minnie Schmalkuche, associate matron, chairman. Members were requested to bring articles for a rummage sale to the Temple. The sale will be held later in the year. Mrs. Olympia D. Cottine read a poem, A Mother's Prayer, by Dorothy Skivens Blythe, niece of M.W. Annie M. Pond, grand secretary. It was voted to make a contribution to the Veterans' Memorial fund for the permanent remembrance to be installed in the Town Hall.

The Grand Matron's visit to the district will be Wednesday, June 10, in the Dutch Reformed church Kingston. Dinner will be held at 6 p. m. Chapter members are to make crepe paper flowers to be delivered May 15, and furnish three prizes for a card party, April 30 in Masonic Temple, Kingston. Mrs. Cottine, Mrs. Olive Thompson and Mrs. Harp offered prizes. The meeting of officers and past leaders will be Tuesday night, 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Lorraine Turner, Maple avenue, with Mrs. Mae Parks, and Mrs. Muriel Cotant assisting hostesses. A communication was read from the Grand Matron relative to the program for the year, Home and Infirmary; Emergency Relief and General Welfare; Permanent Endowment fund; Disabled Veterans and Service Men and Women at home and abroad. NoSeriousInjuries Occur in Storm

No serious personal injuries were listed in reports of several automobile accidents in Ulster county during the weekend. Slippery highways resulting from Sunday's snow and rain storm were said to be contributing factors in most of the accidents.

The snow, which began falling early Sunday morning, turned to rain in mid-morning. A total precipitation of .78 inches (rain and melted snow) was measured at Brown Station, Ashokan Reservoir, by the New York Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

State police of the Highland station reported that automobiles driven by Hubert Simmons, 42, of Bright Water; and Richard LeFever of Port Ewen collided head-on on a curve on Route 9W about 1:15 p. m. Sunday. Reported injured were Mrs. Margaret Simmons, 41, who received contusions of the right cheek and knee; John Simmons, 10, contusions of the left cheek, and Christopher Simmons, 5, bruises about the mouth, the troopers said.

Accident at Circle

At 2:55 p. m. Sunday, state police reported another accident on Route 9W near the Highland traffic circle, in which an automobile driven by Robert Rutledge, 24, of 21 East Pierpont stret, was in collision with one driven by Arthur Benoit, Jr., 50, of Worcester, Mass.

Carol Benoit was taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment of a laceration of the head and possible concussion, troopers reported. Beverly Logan, 29, of Worcester, and Rose Rutledge, 21, of Kingston reported minor injuries for which they would consult a physician, state police said.

A pickup truck driven by John Fargo, 62, of R.F.D. 1, Marlborough, skidded off the Onteora Trail at Glenford at 7:45 a. m. Sunday and struck a guard rail, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office. No personal injuries were listed.

Goes Down Bank

Frederick Andrew Johnson, R. D. 2, Wallkill, received a minor scalp laceration when the automobile he was driving skidded off the highway and down an embankment at Wallkill about 5 p. m. Saturday, according to a state police report.

At 12:09 a. m. today, the sheriff's office was informed that a rock slide had occurred on the Onteora Trail between West Hurley and Glenford and was "dangerous to traffic." The state highway department was notified.

To Open Napanoch Bids

YoungCoupleHeld In Man's Murder

Mineola, Feb. 16 (AP)—A young couple, charged with murdering the husband's father, a retired policeman, remained in the house with the body for nine days, police say.

Charles Starkins, 24, and his wife, Eileen, 21, were arraigned yesterday on charges of first degree murder in the slaying of his father, Alvin, 62, on Jan. 26.

The younger Starkins were arraigned after they were arrested in the pre-dawn hours at a Queens hotel. Their five-month-old daughter was asleep in a bureau drawer.

Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell said both Starkins and his wife had signed written admissions after long questioning.

Police found the retired officer's body Saturday night in the basement of his home at nearby Valley Stream. The body was concealed under a pile of quilts in the basement. Neighbors had summoned police to search the house after missing Starkins.

Account of Slaying

This account of the slaying and the following events was given by Pinnell:

Young Starkins, who admitted quarreling frequently with his father, pretended to leave the house on Jan. 26, but instead hid in the basement and waited for the older man to go down to a work bench there.

The victim was shot twice in the head by his son, who used a .22 caliber rifle. Young Starkins then clubbed him with the gun butt.

Quilts were dragged over the body, and the couple with their baby then continued to live in the house for nine days without attempting to dispose of the body.

Finally they left the house, first visiting relatives, then going to the hotel.

Mrs. Starkins knew of her husband's plans, urged him not to go through with them, but did nothing to prevent the killing, officers said.

The elder Starkins and his son allegedly argued about the son's reported inability to obtain steady employment.

Missing Aide Is Found in Hospital

Katonah, Feb. 16 (AP)—Kenneth Newland, reported missing after a State Department mission abroad, has been located in a private hospital here and is expected to leave it in a few days.

A physician, who asked that his name not be used, said last night that Newland "is in perfectly good shape, perfectly competent, and much concerned over the furore."

Newland, of Columbia, Mo., was reported to have disappeared in New York several days ago after returning from a trip to India and Pakistan, where he made a study of the American technical aid in those countries.

He is a professor at Stephens College in Columbia and had been assigned to the mission by the college, which has a State Department contract. He is not a government employe.

Suffered Head Injury

The State Department in Washington reported yesterday that Newland had been found, that he had suffered a head injury while on a plane flight between Beirut and Istanbul, and that his New York physician was Dr. Charles Lambert.

An associate of Lambert said in New York that Newland visited Lambert several days ago and said he wanted a rest to recuperate from fatigue suffered during the trip. The professor was quoted as saying he had lost about 15 pounds.

Did Not Treat Head

The physician at Katonah said Newland was not being treated for any head injury and probably would leave in a few days.

Meanwhile, Newland's wife in Columbia said he had notified her yesterday that he was undergoing treatment at the Katonah hospital and that he expected to be in Columbia soon.

The State Department's press office in Washington said Newland was injured on the plane while he was making photographs from the rear of the craft during flight. The plane bounced in an air current, causing him to strike his head.

He was hospitalized at New Delhi for a time and then started back to the U. S.

Stevenson Will Not

garded as a serious contender for the nomination, except himself.

One highly placed Democrat said in an interview he is confident that—beyond insisting on the retention of his old friend Stephen A. Mitchell as national chairman—Stevenson is not making any move to build himself up at the expense of other possible 1956 nominees.

The former Illinois governor, defeated by President Eisenhower last November, probably will sit down with Eisenhower at luncheon in the White House tomorrow. But if they exchange more than courteous pleasantries most politicians here will be surprised.

First Formal Meeting

It would be the first formal meeting between the two men, who swapped bitter charges during last year's campaign. Stevenson has said that while on a wartime mission to Italy in 1945 he once shook hands with Eisenhower and had met him again in Chicago after the war. Otherwise, Stevenson said, they had never had any opportunity to talk.

Stevenson has not been asked to report to the new administration on a round-the-world trip on which he will embark March 2 from San Francisco. Wendell L. Willkie, after his defeat in 1940 by Franklin D. Roosevelt, made such a tour and a subsequent report to the White House.

Stevenson has told party friends he hopes to "educate" himself on world problems and discuss them publicly when he returns. In preparation for his journey, the former Illinois governor planned today to see several ambassadors of countries he will visit.

Stevenson scheduled afternoon meetings with Democratic members of the House and Senate, following a morning conference with national committee staff members. He was to be a guest later at a reception for local Democratic officials and campaign contributors.

Stevenson's criticism in a New York speech Saturday night of what he called "the dollar diplomacy" of the Eisenhower administration brought Republican assertions that the former governor was guilty of "confused thinking." A Republican, Sen. Carlson of Kansas, said the 1952 Democratic nominee seemed to want to continue a "Santa Claus" approach to aid for Europe.

Insurance Bill

ciding ballot was cast by Democratic Assemblyman Leonard Farbstein of Manhattan. Also voting with Hults was GOP Assemblyman Angelo Graci of Queens.

Opposed were Sen. Fred J. Rath of Utica and Assemblyman Donald H. Mead of Syracuse.

Mead told a reporter he was "just against a compulsory bill, which this is." He said many more GOP lawmakers felt the same way.

State law now requires all drivers under 21 to have $10,000-$20,000-$5,000 coverage, and all taxicabs to have 5-10-5 insurance. Trucks and trailers under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Public Service Commission also must be covered.

In addition, all adult owners of motor vehicles involved in an accident resulting in death, personal injury or property damage of more than $50 must post security sufficient to satisfy a judgment resulting from that mishap and furnish proof of financial responsibility for the future.

Liability coverage of at least 10-20-5 is accepted as evidence of financial responsibility.

Massachusetts is the only state that now requires liability coverage for all of its registered vehicles.

Two Women Killed

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—Two elderly Mystic women were instantly killed this morning when their car ran off the Merritt Parkway here and rammed a tree. State Policeman Paul Harrington identified them as Mrs. Clara Brown Wilcox, about 63, believed to be the driver, and her mother Mrs. E. W. Brown, 82, both of 26 Gravel street, Mystic. Force of the impact drove the engine of the Buick sedan into the front seat and pushed the steering column through the roof.

False Alarm Brings Out Departments

A telephoned false alarm at 8:50 p. m. Sunday brought out both the St. Remy and Esopus volunteer fire departments, the sheriff's office and state police reported.

Fire Chief Chester Carkhuff of the St. Remy department called in the authorities after responding to an alarm of fire at the Vineyard Rest at Esopus and finding that the alarm had apparently been deliberately telephoned in by an unknown person as a malicious prank.

Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Chester Wolven of the sheriff's office and Troopers Michael Lisman and J. J. Leupp of Highland are continuing the investigation.

Man Is Killed

Yonkers, Feb. 16 (AP)—An auto crashed into a steel utility pole here early today, fatally injuring one of its two occupants. Frank Tobias, 23, of Yonkers died in St. Joseph's Hospital less than an hour after the accident. Henry Keeping, 22, also of Yonkers, an employe of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., Hastings-on-the-Hudson, is in critical condition.

Prison Association

qualitative and quantitative," the group said. It held that a permanent St. Lawrence institute could help train prison personnel to overcome any such deficiencies in New York state.

"Eventually we look to the day when all felons committed to the correction department will be processed and screened at a reception center," the group added.

At the present time, only criminals up to 21 are sent to Elmira for allocation to the institution where they will receive the best rehabilitation program.

In other recommendations, the Prison Association urged:

Mandatory sentences, up to life, for persons convicted of serious sex crimes. The law now permits judges to use their own discretion in committing these persons to maximum life terms.

A change in the title of "prison guard" to "correction officer."

Extension of the civil service system to include local and county penal institutions.

NoSeriousInjuries Occur in Storm

No serious personal injuries were listed in reports of several automobile accidents in Ulster county during the weekend. Slippery highways resulting from Sunday's snow and rain storm were said to be contributing factors in most of the accidents.

The snow, which began falling early Sunday morning, turned to rain in mid-morning. A total precipitation of .78 inches (rain and melted snow) was measured at Brown Station, Ashokan Reservoir, by the New York Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

State police of the Highland station reported that automobiles driven by Hubert Simmons, 42, of Bright Water, and Richard LeFever of Port Ewen collided head-on on a curve on Route 9W about 1:15 p. m. Sunday. Reported injured were Mrs. Margaret Simmons, 41, who received contusions of the right cheek and knee; John Simmons, 10, contusions of the left cheek, and Christopher Simmons, 5, bruises about the mouth, the troopers said.

Accident at Circle

At 2:55 p. m. Sunday, state police reported another accident on Route 9W near the Highland traffic circle, in which an automobile driven by Robert Rutledge, 24, of 21 East Pierpont stret, was in collision with one driven by Arthur Benoit, Jr., 50, of Worcester, Mass.

Carol Benoit was taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment of a laceration of the head and possible concussion, troopers reported. Beverly Logan, 29, of Worcester, and Rose Rutledge, 21, of Kingston reported minor injuries for which they would consult a physician, state police said.

A pickup truck driven by John Fargo, 62, of R.F.D. 1, Marlborough, skidded off the Onteora Trail at Glenford at 7:45 a. m. Sunday and struck a guard rail, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office. No personal injuries were listed.

Goes Down Bank

Frederick Andrew Johnson, R. D. 2, Wallkill, received a minor scalp laceration when the automobile he was driving skidded off the highway and down an embankment at Wallkill about 5 p. m. Saturday, according to a state police report.

At 12:09 a. m. today, the sheriff's office was informed that a rock slide had occurred on the Onteora Trail between West Hurley and Glenford and was "dangerous to traffic." The state highway department was notified.

Stevenson has not been asked to report to the new administration on a round-the-world trip on which he will embark March 2 from San Francisco. Wendell L. Willkie, after his defeat in 1940 by Franklin D. Roosevelt, made such a tour and a subsequent report to the White House.

Stevenson has told party friends he hopes to "educate" himself on world problems and discuss them publicly when he returns. In preparation for his journey, the former Illinois governor planned today to see several ambassadors of countries he will visit.

Stevenson scheduled afternoon meetings with Democratic members of the House and Senate, following a morning conference with national committee staff members. He was to be a guest later at a reception for local Democratic officials and campaign contributors.

Stevenson's criticism in a New York speech Saturday night of what he called "the dollar diplomacy" of the Eisenhower administration brought Republican assertions that the former governor was guilty of "confused thinking." A Republican, Sen. Carlson of Kansas, said the 1952 Democratic nominee seemed to want to continue a "Santa Claus" approach to aid for Europe.

Insurance Bill

ciding ballot was cast by Democratic Assemblyman Leonard Farbstein of Manhattan. Also voting with Hults was GOP Assemblyman Angelo Graci of Queens.

Opposed were Sen. Fred J. Rath of Utica and Assemblyman Donald H. Mead of Syracuse.

Mead told a reporter he was "just against a compulsory bill, which this is." He said many more GOP lawmakers felt the same way.

State law now requires all drivers under 21 to have $10,000-$20,000-$5,000 coverage, and all taxicabs to have 5-10-5 insurance. Trucks and trailers under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Public Service Commission also must be covered.

In addition, all adult owners of motor vehicles involved in an accident resulting in death, personal injury or property damage of more than $50 must post security sufficient to satisfy a judgment resulting from that mishap and furnish proof of financial responsibility for the future.

Liability coverage of at least 10-20-5 is accepted as evidence of financial responsibility.

Massachusetts is the only state that now requires liability coverage for all of its registered vehicles.

Two Women Killed

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—Two elderly Mystic women were instantly killed this morning when their car ran off the Merritt Parkway here and rammed a tree. State Policeman Paul Harrington identified them as Mrs. Clara Brown Wilcox, about 63, believed to be the driver, and her mother Mrs. E. W. Brown, 82, both of 26 Gravel street, Mystic. Force of the impact drove the engine of the Buick sedan into the front seat and pushed the steering column through the roof.

Why We Say--

. . . Headline word

A Chicago sports writer, George Carter, who needed a short headline word, is reported to have started this commonly abbreviated boxing term. The K and O of course mean knock out and the abbreviation is in universal boxing use today.

False Alarm Brings Out Departments

A telephoned false alarm at 8:50 p. m. Sunday brought out both the St. Remy and Esopus volunteer fire departments, the sheriff's office and state police reported.

Fire Chief Chester Carkhuff of the St. Remy department called in the authorities after responding to an alarm of fire at the Vineyard Rest at Esopus and finding that the alarm had apparently been deliberately telephoned in by an unknown person as a malicious prank.

Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Chester Wolven of the sheriff's office and Troopers Michael Lisman and J. J. Leupp of Highland are continuing the investigation.

Man Is Killed

Yonkers, Feb. 16 (AP)—An auto crashed into a steel utility pole here early today, fatally injuring one of its two occupants. Frank Tobias, 23, of Yonkers died in St. Joseph's Hospital less than an hour after the accident. Henry Keeping, 22, also of Yonkers, an employe of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., Hastings-on-the-Hudson, is in critical condition.

Prison Association

qualitative and quantitative," the group said. It held that a permanent St. Lawrence institute could help train prison personnel to overcome any such deficiencies in New York state.

"Eventually we look to the day when all felons committed to the correction department will be processed and screened at a reception center," the group added.

At the present time, only criminals up to 21 are sent to Elmira for allocation to the institution where they will receive the best rehabilitation program.

In other recommendations, the Prison Association urged:

Mandatory sentences, up to life, for persons convicted of serious sex crimes. The law now permits judges to use their own discretion in committing these persons to maximum life terms.

A change in the title of "prison guard" to "correction officer."

Extension of the civil service system to include local and county penal institutions.

Will Address Parents

On Tuesday, February 17, at 8 p. m., Mrs. Barbara Bailis, speech therapist of the Cerebral Palsy Center, will address the parents of the Fair Street Nursery School in the school rooms at 209 Fair street. Mrs. Bailis, who has an excellent background in solving speech problems with young children, is anxious for discussion and plans to show a pertinent movie illustrating the therapy used with youngsters. Mrs. Samuel Trull and Mrs. William Darling of the morning school will serve refreshments during the social time.

Blizzards, Black And White, Visit Northern Plains

(By The Associated Press)

A storm called the worst in years whipped up black and white blizzards through parts of Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado, and most of the northern midlands today felt its bite.

While lesser winds accompanied the general sub zero temperatures in the northern plains and upper Mississippi valley, a blow that ranged up to 80 miles an hour Sunday lofted dust more than 12,000 feet high in western Kansas.

In virtually zero visibility, Kansas groped through the worst dust storm since the storied blackouts of 20 years ago. Traffic was at a standstill.

In western Nebraska, the storm pushed over trees, broke windows, stripped off shingles and interrupted communications.

Drifting snow blocked mountain passes in northern Colorado Sunday and forced the postponement of the National Ski Jumping meet at Steamboat Springs.

Are Not as Bitter

Temperatures in the more critical three-state area of the storm were not as bitter, however, as in the section to the north. Aberdeen, S. D., had 14 below this morning and Fargo, N. D., -7. Temperatures of zero or lower were general in the Dakotas and Minnesota and were spreading southward and eastward.

A band of snow 100 miles wide extended across this sector from eastern Montana into Nebraska and northern Illinois. Omaha, Neb., and Moline, Ill., reported three inches early this morning.

There was lesser precipitation in the east where the weather was more moderate. Northern New England had some rain and snow, and there were snow flurries in the Great Lakes area.

The Pacific Northwest had some showers, but the southern half of the nation had fair weather.

Says Millions Wasted

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Rep. Scrivner (R.-Kan.) says the government is wasting millions of dollars by giving uniforms to servicemen at the time of their discharge. "Most of them will tell you quite frankly unless Uncle Sam reaches out and grabs them again, they are never going to put on a uniform," he said during a recent hearing by a house appropriations subcommittee. The record was made public today. Anyway, Scrivner added, the uniforms are for trained down soldiers and "within three or four months after they are discharged," the veterans will have "gained so much weight that they cannot even get into their uniforms."
